FIVE ESCAPE AS CAR HITS HOUSE

Collision Collapses Porch and Throws Concrete Block Into Bedroom.

Five members of a Springmill family and a Shelby motorist escaped injury at 3:45 a. m. today when a skidding car crashed into the front of a house on State route 39 at Springmill, sheared off the porch posts, causing the porch to collapse, and threw a huge block of cement through a window into a bedroom.

A 12-year-old Mansfield boy suffered minor injuries and another Mansfielder escaped injury in two other traffic mishaps in the city area.

The cement block, ripped from the porch of the Springmill home, hurtled into the bedroom where Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hastings were sleeping and landed beside their bed. The couple's three children, Warren, jr., 15; June, 12, and Harold, 9, were asleep upstairs.

Philip Barnett, 24, Shelby, driver of the car, was arrested by state highway patrolmen on a charge of unsafe operation. Hearing was set for next Monday morning in Mansfield municipal court.

State patrolmen said Barnett's car skidded on a curve and crash-

Thousands Leave to Cheer Tygers To Victory [We Hope] at Massillon

Boiling with football enthusiasm, thousands of Mansfielders this afternoon started leaving by automobile, bus and train for Massillon where Ohio's high school gridiron spotlight is focused for tonight's Mansfield-Massillon game.

There will be upward of 5,000 persons—a seventh of Mansfield's population—in the stands of the Massillon stadium long before kick-off time at 8 p. m.

Some 1,300 were to leave on a 17-coach special Pennsylvania train at 5:20 p. m. and some 4,000 others left earlier by automobile and bus.

Overnight it was found necessary to increase the size of the train by two coaches, making it a 17-car train instead of 15 cars.

That made another 150 train tickets available early today but they were snapped up almost immediately as word of the addition of two coaches to the train got around town.

Meanwhile, James Young, Pennsylvania agent here, called on all fans traveling via train to exercise caution in order to avoid accidents.

"We urge all fans boarding the train to use the subway to reach the train," Young said, "because we don't want anyone running across track and perhaps falling and getting hurt. Passengers must show their tickets before boarding the train, and no one who does not have a special train ticket will be allowed to board it. And after the game, we urge fans to take

CRASH IN CHASE

Police Cruiser Hits Auto; Six Escape Injury.

Six persons escaped injury this morning when a police cruiser collided with another auto while chasing a speeding motorist on Lexington avenue.

Police Lieut. Bruce Friday, driver of the cruiser, reported that he crashed into the side of an auto carrying a Mansfield woman and her three children after Garpar Baldo, Akron, who was being chased as a speeder, had pulled to the middle of the road.

Friday said that Baldo pulled toward the center as the cruiser was attempting to pass him. The cruiser side-swiped a car driven by Mrs. Oliver C. Henkel, 770 Andover road. Riding with Mrs. Henkel were her sons Stephen, 7; Oliver, jr., 4; and Richard Henkel, 2. Friday was accompanied by Patrolman George Yoakam.

Both the cruiser and the Henkel auto, which had just recently been purchased, were badly damaged.

Despite the collision, Friday and Yoakam arrested Baldo and accused him of driving more than 55 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone.

WORK OR FIGHT RULE OPERATES IN WALKOUT

Reclassify Men Among 2,000 Welders Who Struck on West Coast.

DEFENSE THREATENED

Ecorse Steel Dispute Settled, Bendix Labor Strife Seen Increasing.

(By United Press)

A long-standing "work or fight" dictum from national selective service headquarters began to operate today in a strike of almost 2,000 welders which threatens $365,000,000 worth of defense shipbuilding in the Pacific northwest.

Apparent peace was restored again today at the Great Lakes Steel Products company, Ecorse, Mich., but increasingly serious developments marked the prolonged strike affecting aircraft parts production at Air Associates, Incorporated, Bendix, N. J.

In its third day, the welders' strike, crippling work at five Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., shipyards, loomed largest among existing defense disputes. At Seattle, the King county selective service board began to reclassify as 1-A, draft age welders among the 1,300 on strike within its jurisdiction. The men formerly had been deferred because of employment essential to defense.

The council of welders and burners, which called the walkout to force demands for an autonomous welders' union within the American Federation of Labor, said today that their strike soon would be supported by sympathy walkouts in five other cities. The walkout already has spread to small firms in the Puget Sound area.

Excepting the Ecorse, Mich., settlement, there was no apparent abatement of strife on the defense labor front despite recent appeals from the president and the highest defense officials for complete inter-union and labor-management harmony in the interest of the armament program.

The eight-day strike at Great Lakes Steel Products, fourth to curtail production of high tensile steel in as many months, was terminated by a back to work vote last night by 2,000 members of the CIO steel workers organizing committee.

The settlement, although provisional as was a former one that collapsed, sent the first of 8,100 workers into the plant. The peace proposal was offered by the CIO United Automobile Workers' union, 100,000 of whose members

FDR SUPPORTS 'LITTLE FLOWER'

Ignores Party Lines To Aid La Guardia in Mayoral Race.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt today gave Mayor Fiorello La Guardia an unqualified White House blessing in his campaign for re-election as mayor of New York.

Stepping across party lines, and ignoring the Democratic candidacy of District Attorney William O. Dwyer as sponsored by Democratic National Chairman Ed Flynn, the president issued a formal statement declaring that in his opinion La Guardia had given New York City the "most honest and most efficient administration" it had been his privilege to observe, since the president first went to the city in 1904.

Soviets Claim Victories In Three Battles

Nazis Fought to Standstill at Kalinin, Mozhaik, and Near Orel as Budenny And Voroshilov Organize Forces; Hitler Troops Wait Freeze.

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)

Soviet front-line dispatches acknowledged that the situation was "alarming in all sectors" on the Ukraine front today, with heavy fighting raging on the approaches to Rostov-on-Don, while claims from both sides listed a staggering total of more than 10,000,000 men killed and wounded in the 4-months-old campaign.

(By International News Service)

Formation of two new Russian armies to combat the Nazis was announced today as the Soviets claimed victories over the Germans in great battles northwest, southwest and south of Moscow.

Reports to London from the war zone claimed the Nazis had been mowed down in vast numbers, and the Russian high command said:

"Fierce enemy attacks in the Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavetz areas were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy.

"At Kuibyshev, new seat of the Russian government, Vice Foreign Commissar S. A. Lozovsky declared Marshals Semyon Budenny and Klementi E. Voroshilov have been charged with formation of two new armies. He also said Marshal Semyon Timoshenko, replaced by Gen. Grigori Zhukov on the Moscow front, has been given command of the southern Red armies.

Meanwhile, Lozovsky declared that amid intense fighting, Nazi drives have been halted on the Kalinin and Mozhaisk sectors of the Moscow front.

He said fighting is progressing in "every house in Kalinin" and that the Russian forces hold half the town.

At Mozhaisk, he said, the Germans were halted after gaining control over a considerable portion of the town, adding that at both Mozhaisk and Kalinin the Russians had staged fierce counter-attacks.

South of Moscow, Lozovsky stated, the Germans have been "unable to progress far beyond Orel."

Indicating that no particular changes had occurred in the battle lines outside Moscow, the Soviet high command declared in its noon war communique:

"During the night of Oct. 23, our troops fought the enemy on the entire front, and especially stubborn fighting occurred in the directions of Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavetz."

This afternoon the Russian (Tass) news agency said renewed German attacks on the Crimea

PETAIN PLEA DELAYS DEATHS

Gets Stay of Execution For 100 Hostages; 50 Others Die For Assassination.

(By United Press)

VICHY, France—A communique said today that a plea by Marshal Henri Philippe Petain had won a postponement of the deadline for execution of 100 French hostages seized by German occupation authorities, but Berlin dispatches said 50 others had been put to death in reprisal for the assassination of a Nazi major at Bordeaux.

The execution of 50 in retaliation for the Bordeaux assassination was not confirmed by Vichy official sources. But in Berlin Nazi authorized quarters, after telephone communication with Paris, said the order had been carried out, raising to 100 the total of executions so far resulting from the slaying of occupation officers at Nantes and Bordeaux.

Four hostage groups of 50 each have been involved in the two incidents.

BOW TO FDR

15,000 Striking Miners Will Return To Jobs Monday.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. —(INS)— William Mitch, district president of the CIO United Mine Workers, indicated today that out of deference to the wishes of President Roosevelt, some 15,000 striking miners at the commercial mines of the Birmingham area would return to work on Monday.

The strikers walked out in protest against what they felt was the delay of the national defense mediation board in recommending terms for a new working contract for miners of the Birmingham district.

Ending of the strike in the Commercial mines would not affect the approximately 8,000 miners on strike in the district's Captive mines, union leaders said. These miners seek a closed shop contract.

Only 11 Draftees Of 41 Examined Pass Physicals

Richland county draft boards came up with another poor "score" yesterday with their examination for registrants at the Mansfield Armory.

Boards 1 and 3 which called a total of 41 men for physical tests reported only 11 youths qualified for a 1-A classification, although three or four others might meet the requirements after blood test reports are returned from Columbus, clerks said. Board 2 conducted no examinations yesterday.

Failure of most of the registrants to pass the physical tests left Board 3 without sufficient men to fill its November quota, while the illness of two of the board's selectees scheduled for induction next Monday also left the October quota short.

The boards today were told by state selective service headquarters to pay special attention to nerve and mental ailments of prospective selectees, pointing out that youths who are not mentally stable make poor soldiers and may damage the morals of an entire company.

Richland county boards will send 126 youths to the Fort Hayes induction station Monday, completing the October quota. Early in November they expect to begin sending registrants to Columbus for their physical examinations, virtually eliminating the examination sessions at the Armory here.

Bushnell Calls for Repeal Of City Sewer Rental Charge

A call for repeal of the sewer rental tax, which he termed "obnoxious" was sounded by Democratic Mayoralty Candidate Fred M. Bushnell in a campaign speech last night given at a political meeting at which Mayor W. J. Locke's claims of civil accomplishments were discredited with assertions that the city "ran itself" without any guidance by the mayor.

Bushnell and City Solicitor M. D. Ward, jr., spoke before approximately 200 Democrats attending the party's third rally of the current campaign at headquarters in the Martin Hardware building.

Bushnell pointed out that the sewer charge had been passed by a Republican administration in February, 1937, as an emergency measure. "The question now is," said Bushnell, "when will that emergency cease to exist."

"It seems to me that this emergency is past and if we so find it," promised Bushnell, "then the obnoxious charge can be stopped and the public will be saved these charges two times each year."

The sewer charge started in 1937 during the administration of Earl A. McFarland to provide operating funds for the new sewage disposal plant. The charge is based

Democracy Rests on a Free Press, Editor Tells Clubs

"Democracy rests more surely upon a free press in this country than upon anything else in the world," Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, told 150 Kiwanians and Rotarians at a joint luncheon meeting yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Patterson, taking as his topic "Defense — With What? Of What?" compared the U. S. defense picture to a popper full of corn, saying that while this nation had the greatest resources in the world with which to work, defense kernels in the shape of increased production were just beginning to pop, and that it took time to organize and get under way such a vast program of national defense.

"One of these days Uncle Sam's popper is going to pop and we are going to have amazing production and a tremendous national defense," he declared.

Continuing with the second part of his two-fold address, "Defense —Of What?" Patterson said that to simply state "defend democracy," was not enough, that too many rank and file Americans did not understand the term democracy.

Patterson declared that democracy, which has been praised as superior to all other forms of government, is inferior to totalitarianism, merely as a form of government; and that autocracy is

NEW RED ARMIES HALT GERMANS IN 3 BATTLES

Russians Claim Moscow Front Stands as Nazis Say They Wait For Freeze.

had been repulsed, with more than 2,000 Germans killed and wounded.

In the past three days, said Tass, 10,000 enemy soldiers have been killed or wounded on the Crimean front. Fifty guns and a great number of machine guns and trench mortars were said to have been destroyed.

The battle on the approaches to the Crimean peninsula, said Tass, is raging with unabated force. The Germans were reported throwing fresh divisions into the attack, but the Red army was "resolutely resisting the onslaughts."

Heavy fighting also broke out anew on the Leningrad front. There, according to a supplementary Russian communique, a Soviet tank unit annihilated two enemy infantry companies, destroyed 14 tanks and 18 guns.

"One of our tanks killed 80 enemy soldiers," the bulletin said.

German military authorities declared, however, that the Nazi forces are awaiting a real freeze which will harden the ground before starting a major sweep for their objectives.

They added that "many spacious sectors" are known to have been abandoned by Soviet troops, leaving areas of hundreds of square kilometers undefended. Authorities said German panzer units will be able to roll into these regions at top speed as soon as there is a turn in the weather.

For the moment, German reports stated, the chief battles are raging around heavily defended local sectors such as Leningrad, Kalinin, Moscow and Kharkov.

On the southern front, it was stated, the Germans are "knocking at the very gates of Rostov and ripening its defenders for a knockout blow."

Berlin quarters asserted that despite the weather German froces on the southern front were pursuing fleeing Red army units and that the Luftwaffe was pounding points where the Donets river could be crossed to prevent the Russians from escaping across the river.

On the Leningrad front, it was stated, the Russians—repeatedly beaten back in attempts to cross the River Neva—yesterday resumed their attacks on the German lines under cover of artificial fog.

Once more, it was claimed, the Russians were "decimated" and heavy German guns simultaneously laid down a new barrage on Leningrad harbor and the Russian naval base of Kronstadt.

German authorities said the Russians so far have failed to re-establish a major defense line and that their counter-blows are limited to local sectors, where they are "desperately resisting capture."

On the western front, British bombers again hammered northwestern Germany during the night. The Germans said several points were attacked, causing "insignificant damage to buildings and slight civilian casualties."

Berlin announced a German raid on the Scottish port of Dundee, claiming bombers had caused "huge conflagrations." But the British air ministry announced that a single Nazi raider flew over northern Scotland, dropping a few bombs which caused no casualties.

Rome announced British raids on Naples—the second within a week—and the city of Cotrone.

Calls 'Collision' With Japs Likely

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary Knox said today that a "collision" in the Far East was virtually inevitable and could occur on 24 hours notice.

"The situation in the Far East is extremely strained," Knox told a group of naval munitions manufacturers.

"We are satisfied in our own minds that the Japanese have no intention of giving up their plans for expansion. If they pursue that course a collision there is inevitable. It can occur on 24 hours notice," Knox said.

This description of conditions involving the United States and Japan, coming from a cabinet member after weeks of Washington-Tokyo efforts to find a formula for settlement, was prompted by a discussion of ways by which munitions can be delivered from this country to Russia.

Knox said he had "just hurried away from a conference"—he did not say with whom—at which British and Russian needs for war materials had been stressed as matters of great urgency.

Agree U. S.-Japan Talks Continuing

TOKYO—(INS)—Koh Ishii, chief Japanese foreign office spokesman, reaffirmed today that exploratory talks are continuing between the United States and Japan and added:

"All points have been explained. It is now up to President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

"Japan cannot back down on establishment of the 'new order' in East Asia."

Commenting on the United States decision to use Archangel rather than the far eastern port of Vladivostok for shipments of war supplies to Russia, Ishii declared:

"If this is true, Japan is well satisfied. It eases feeling between Japan and America."

The newspaper Nichi Nichi said, however, that the Vladivostok route was abandoned "solely because Vladivostok is unusable in winter."

PETAIN PLEA DELAYS DEATHS

Gets Stay of Execution For 100 Hostages; 50 Others Die For Assassination.

The first group of 50 drawn from scattered parts of occupied France was put to death earlier this week in retaliation for the Nantes assassination of Lieut. Col. Fredrich Holtz.

The second group of 50, according to Berlin, was put to death today for the Bordeaux assassination.

Two other groups of 50 each, however, were still held, one for each killing, and were scheduled to be shot if the assassins were not captured. These scheduled executions have now been postponed until next week on Vichy's plea, the communique said.

The communique said that after appeals by Petain and vice-Premier Admiral Jean Francois Darlan the German authorities agreed to delay the execution of the "complementary groups," which authorities here said meant the second groups of 50 at each place.

This was done, the communique said, in order to permit time for a more thorough search for the actual assassins and thus avoid further executions of hostages not connected with the crimes.

The executions of the second group of 50 at Nantes, which had been scheduled for today, was delayed until Monday midnight. The executions of the second group at Bordeaux, which had been set for any time after Sunday midnight, was delayed until Wednesday midnight.

In issuing their statement regarding the reprieve, Vichy officials pointed out that it was provisional and urged the French people to help the Germans and the Vichy police by denouncing the killers of the German officers, so the lives of 100 citizens of France could be saved.

British, Free French Attack Somaliland

VICHY, Unoccupied France —(U.P.)— The Vichy regime's governor-general in French Somaliland reported in a dispatch from Djibouti today that British and Free French troops had started an attack on the colony.

The announcement said that the attack began Thursday and had been pushed some 30 miles into French territory.

The Allies occupied Dasenaiteo, only 18 miles north of Tajura, an important port just across the gulf of the same name from Jibuti, the governor said.

The little French colony on the gulf of Aden has been surrounded by the British and Free French since Italian Eritrea and nearly all Ethiopia were wrested from the Italians last spring.

The price of harmonicas, formerly imported from Germany, Czechoslovakia, and Japan has risen 30 to 40 per cent.

WESTINGHOUSE GETS CONTRACT FOR MUNITIONS

partment and that our efforts on behalf of Mansfield and the vicinity have been recognized," McGregor said. "I am assured that the preference for Mansfield in contract distribution will be continued."

Notification of the Westinghouse award was received yesterday from Army ordnance headquarters in Cleveland. In the hope of obtaining defense business, Westinghouse officials some months ago spent $75,000 to prepare a section of the plant to handle work like shell production.

"To speed this project in every way possible," said Hillier, "we are immediately sending men who will act as supervisors in the shell-producing section to government arsenals to familiarize themselves with the work."

The 37 millimeter shells are approximately one and one-half inches in diameter and six and a half inches in length. Known technically as three-piece shot, they have a forged steel body with an alloy steel penetrating point or cap, and an aluminum "windshield" which cuts down wind resistance.

The new contract will be the second major defense project to be awarded the Mansfield Westinghouse plant. More than half the total production the Westinghouse plants throughout the country is devoted to defense work. In August, a $3,173,000 order for Army binoculars was given the Mansfield plant.

Production on the binocular contract, which is expected to provide employment for 700 persons, is expected to start early next year. Special machinery must be installed for the binocular production.

The shells will be produced in the "G" building, the plant's central building, located between Fourth and Fifth streets. At present the building houses the assembly line for refrigerators and electric ranges. Twenty thousand feet in the north side of the building will be used for the new work.

Hillier said the shell order was evidence of the War department's effort to relieve dislocation of employment due to curtailment of production on were thrown into idleness as the plant's furloughed employes were thrown into idlenss as the result of production curtailment on refrigerators and scarcity of metals vital to defense.

Machinery, heat-treating, assembling, inspecting and packing of the shells will be done in Mansfield. Part of the force will work on a three-shift basis. Only about a dozen employes will be women.

Forgings for the shells will come from an outside supplier, as will the aluminum castings for the "windshields."

Part of the machinery needed for the work are three heat-treating furnaces which will be built in the Westinghouse plant in East Pittsburgh. As one of the important phases of the shell production lies in the heat-treating technique employed, much of the preliminary training work planned is for that process.

C. L. Van Derau, manager of manufacturing, has assigned Harry Rist, foreman in the appliance machine division, to supervise the shell production. Rist, along with four other employes, H. S. Korb, E. H. Stahl, H. L. Farber and L. W. Kaufman, already have been assigned to government arsenals for special training.

more competent in getting things accomplished.

"But that is not the point," he said. "Democracy is immeasureably more than a form of government. Democracy is a spirit."

Taking opposition to the president's definition, "What is democracy but the rule of the majority?" he shook his head and said:

"Oh no, that is not a definition. The glory of democracy, as Dorothy Thompson has well said, is that it is the one type of government upon the earth which provides for the continuing rights of a minority not in power. What could be more tyrannical than a majority in power without provision for the rights of the minority? The majority is in power in Germany, Russia, and in Italy."

Patterson stressed the fact that free expression is the most important attribute of democracy, and the newspaper is its most vital and important medium. "The printed word gives permanence to free expression," he said.

"Unhappily the average American citizen does not think through the meaning of a free press, its significance in a representative government."

Patterson stated that the institutions of a democracy rest upon a system which opens and keeps open a channel for human expression, a channel which flows from the center of government the stream of information which makes it possible for democratic organization to function over the far-flung territory of a nation.

He concluded his talk by saying that the times call for a renewal of faith. "Faith that we came from somewhere, and faith that we are going somewhere," he said.

"The reason England stands up today," he said, "is that she has the faith woven into her life which is represented in her great cathedrals. There is no such thing as automatic progress," he declared, attacking those who think we can "muddle our way through this mess."

"We must cooperate."

John W. Graham, program chairman of the Kiwanis club, and general manager of the Mansfield News-Journal, presided at the meeting and introduced Patterson.

were threatened with layoffs if the strike continued.

The dispute centered around strikers' objection to wage scales agreed upon by their union and the company.

Counsel for Air Associates, Inc., today prepared an injunction to enjoin picketing of the plant where CIO Aircraft workers have been on strike since Sept. 29, without, however, substantially reducing production on $5,000,000 worth of government orders.

The injunction move was the company's answer to picketing yesterday by 2,000 strikers and sympathizers. Four CIO members were injured in a melee that ensued when 500 non-strikers drove through the picket lines.

THOUSANDS OFF FOR MASSILLON —AND VICTORY?

Enthusiastic Backers Leave By Train, Auto and Bus For Big Grid Game.

their time in boarding the train. It will be dark and accidents can happen easily under such conditions.

"This is a great day and a great event. We don't want any accidents to mar it."

Although all reserved seats are gone, about 5,000 general admission seats will be on sale at the Massillon stadium tonight, advices from there said today. General admission seats are 55 cents.

The weatherman promised a rise in temperature tonight, forecasting a cloudy but warmer evening. Nevertheless, most Mansfield fans put on heavy coats and carried blankets to insure themselves comfort at the game.

The referee's starting whistle will bring together Ohio's two most outstanding high school teams so far in the season and the winner will be in a position to lay claim to the state high school championship.

Not that they needed it . . . it helped them blow off some of the steam of enthusiasm they piled up during the week . . . Mansfield high school's 1,300 pupils staged a pre-game yell session and pep rally yesterday afternoon.

Led by batteries of cheer leaders, the pupils yelled themselves hoarse while Sam Vining, Mansfield's most noted "pepper-upper" pulled five pairs of brilliant red suspenders from his trousers, tossed them to the crowd and pleaded with the youths to give them to the Massillon team, because, he said, "They'll need them after our team beats the pants off of them."

Assistant Coach Vern Hoffman, preceded Vining to the stage. Taking off his coat, he gave his tie, belt and suspenders to pupils who guessed closest to what Hoffman believed would be the game's outcome: Mansfield 19, Massillon 13.

But most of the show was that put on by the pupils themselves. They cheered their team to the echo and half way back and when the school band blared out the Tyger fight song, they stood up and gave back noise with noise until the huge hall rang with enthusiasm.

Most serious note was struck by Hoffman when he reminded the pupils that, in the last analysis, it was merely 22 boys playing football and in spite of the imposing Massillon record its team members were "only human and would feel just as badly as the next when Mansfield knocked them down on the turf."

Following the rally, the band packed its instruments and prepared to join the rooters on the special train leaving Mansfield Pennsylvania station at 5:20 p. m. today.

Railroad officials said the band would occupy the first coach hooked to the engine on both the going and return trips.

The eight cheer leaders got their last work out before the game at the rally. Working in teams of four they taught the pupils a new yell devised especially for Massillon consumption.

Meanwhile Coach Paul Snyder said that the team would go to the game in the regular way—by special bus.

"The boys are so excited already that I feel it would be a mistake to further upset them by changing transportation means at this time," he explained.

INDUSTRIES AT BUCYRUS HIT BY PRIORITIES

Production Slowed Up Due To Inability To Obtain Raw Materials.

BUCYRUS—Slow deliveries on metals and other raw materials are considerably hampering production in Bucyrus manufacturing plants, survey made this week show, although Bucyrus has not felt the pinch of production that has been evident in neighboring cities.

Several of the city's manufacturers, which have not been designated as defense plants, have found it necessary to substitute materials in various products and others have slowed down production due to defense priority ratings.

One local firm, the Sozonion Vault company, manufacturers of steel burial vaults, which used quantities of aluminum paint in finishing their product, have found it necessary to substitute other materials for finishing. The supply of aluminum paint was completely shut off several months ago.

In spite of the difficulty in securing materials, there has been no wholesale layoff of workers by Bucyrus concerns to date.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1941.

Word comes that the Eskimos don't like Hitler either—which gives him top place in the unpopularity contest.

It is consoling to note that some folks keep right on working instead of depending on winning the bank night award.

This is the hand-shaking stage of the campaign—and if a stranger approaches, with outstretched mitt, he's probably running for something.

Some Thoughts About Democracy

TWENTY-TWO THOUSAND people will jam the stadium in Massillon tonight to see a high school football game. Hundreds of thousands will attend college football games tomorrow afternoon.

That is fine. It is a part of the freedom made possible by American citizenship.

But it would also be fine if an equal number of thousands of Americans were interested to the extent of filling the largest auditorium available in each city to hear such a talk as was given in Mansfield yesterday by Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, at a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

With all the millions of words that have been spoken and written about present national and world conditions, with consequent confusion of thought, all that would be really needed for American young people—and older ones, as well—to get a clear idea of individual responsibility and national objectives, is to hear, understand and analyze such a speech—not alone in what is actually said but also in the stimulation of thought along lines briefly touched on by the speaker.

The billions of dollars going into the national defense program may not be understood—even when reduced to present spending of $30,000 a minute, to grow to $69,000 a minute before the end of next year—but it does mean something understandable when we are told that while an American workingman works little more than seven hours for a pair of shoes a Russian is required to work three weeks for a pair of shoes—or that an American worker can buy a suit of clothes for 38½ hours work but that it takes a Russian twelve weeks to earn enough to get a suit of clothes.

"Communism cannot distribute wealth," Mr. Patterson said, on the basis of observation during three extended visits in Russia, "Communism can only distribute poverty."

Speaking of democracy as a form of government, Mr. Patterson said: "I have heard democracy praised as superior to all other forms of government. I do not believe this. Merely as a form of government it is inferior to the totalitarian system . . . things can be accomplished over night in a dictatorship state that would take six months or a year to accomplish under a loose system of representative government . . .

"Democracy is immeasurably more than a form of government. Democracy is a spirit. It provides an atmosphere in which man can be somebody and go somewhere under his own power . . . it is not a manner of life that has been won . . . it is a continuing, cooperative effort in human society. Man must put into the field of democracy, in sacrifice and in devotion, as much as he takes out in privilege.

Speaking briefly of the importance of preserving freedom of the press, Mr. Patterson said: "When I traveled through fourteen European countries, including the Soviet Union, Germany, and some of the smaller nations of Central Europe, there was borne in upon me, with greater clarity and force than ever before, the fact that the only thing God has vouchsafed His people that will keep one man, or one group of men, from stealing a government and administering it in the interest of a privileged few, is a free press . . . free expression is the most important attribute of democracy and a free newspaper is its most important and needful medium. For the printed word gives permanence to free expression."

Those who realize the clear understanding, sound judgment and broad knowledge of public affairs which Grove Patterson possesses will regret that his services are not now available as a United States senator from Ohio, for which place he is eminently qualified.

Finished What They Started

DON'T OVERLOOK the importance of the recognition ceremonies being held in Westinghouse auditorium this afternoon.

At first thought you may not associate it with any personal interest—but you'll be much mistaken in that case.

The central figures in this afternoon's ceremonies are more than five hundred Richland county 4-H club boys and girls who started farm work projects last spring and CARRIED THEM THROUGH.

The projects were of various sorts—but all associated with farm work and homemaking.

These young people, whose homes are on Richland county farms, are already showing traits of industry, initiative and determination which augur well for their future success in agricultural pursuits—or whatever field of activity, may later attract them.

They may not merit any particular credit for STARTING a project—but they have the almost unique distinction of FINISHING what they started—and that's something!

Public Opinion Awakening

THERE was danger that Walter Damrosch, beloved friend of every American who enjoys good music, should at the age of 80 be prevented from giving his weekly lessons to thousands of school children by some petty jurisdictional fuss. But Walter was right there on the first Friday of the season with his gentle and beautiful teaching.

The giant called American Public Opinion is slowly waking up. When he rises, he will snap all the threads with which little people have sought to bind him.

News item: "Spinach has been blacklisted by the army Q. M. in California on the ground that it is too expensive"—and that's as good a reason as any.

It is quite impressive to learn about the cigaret that "pays more for its tobacco" until you discover that all of them seem to be doing the same thing.

A famous author advises an aspiring youth that "a yearning to write is not enough"—indicating that it is easier to yearn than to earn.

RUSSIA'S RESERVES

Economic War Will Be Speeded

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

SECRETARY CORDELL HULL'S recent thorough reorganization of his state department had immediately in view an increase in its efficiency as an agency of economic warfare. Uncle Sam's cabinet premier wasn't unmindful, however, of the importance of getting his staff on its toes to jump hot-footedly into the job of insuring permanent world-wide economic peace the minute the present war's over.

Cordell Hull

Without international economic peace, he holds that no other kind of lasting peace is possible.

Speakers at our National Foreign Trade Council's New York convention, a short time ago, generally agreed with him. Producers in countries like the United States, where there's a huge demand for their commodities, wanting to keep foreign competition out of their home markets, mostly yowl for high tariffs, to keep importations at a minimum.

Members of the Foreign Trade Council, though, are anxious for all the customers they can get abroad. They're conscious that foreigners can't buy from us unless we buy from them; so tariff walls are very repugnant to 'em.

President Eugene P. Thomas of the FTC, at its New York convention, referred pretty bitterly to our restrictive commercial policies following the last war, as provocative of today's strife and as bad for business in the meantime.

He complained also of England, which is too small an island to have raw materials to export in any great quantity but which does have its overseas possessions to draw from and which has, he asserted, shaped its international trading agreement in a fashion to hamper other countries' foreign salesmanship to Britain's advantage. It wasn't a particularly timely talk, at a juncture when we're so closely aligned with the British, but it was expressive of his association's ideas.

Cites "Villain's Part."

State Undersecretary Sumner Welles was on hand, too. He didn't slam Britain (too diplomatic probably) but he did mention the "villain's part" played by American protectionists in raising trade barriers in the 1920's.

Regardless of criticisms of the United States and the British for their respective policies that time, it was the consensus that they'll have to pull together for world trade's benefit the instant the current muss ends; otherwise it won't stay ended.

It'll be essentially up to Uncle Sam and John Bull to fix things, spokesmen said, because those two, between 'em, control approximately half of the whole earth's international trade, and, in partnership, they probably can get away with it.

All the same, Secretary Hull's reorganization aims at improved economic warfare against the Axis while the current rumpus continues.

The department has had, of course, a lot of separate divisions, specializing on as many different lines of activity. They've overlapped, though. All the other departments are similarly split into their various groups and similarly, among themselves, overlapping. Moreover, there's been no cohesion as between the departments.

Secretary Hull's attempt is to eliminate his own internal overlapping and, at the same time, to contact his groups with the other department's appropriate groups.

That they'll succeed in doing it is far more than problematic. Even if Cordell has his bunch correctly sorted out, how are his subdivisions to determine which is which among the other department's unclassified outfits?

Mix-up Terrific.

It's theoretically the correct system to be sure. It's weakness is that one department's trying to tackle it alone. It ought to be undertaken from overhead, including all of 'em, plus all the independent agencies that don't belong to any department especially. The Washington mix-up is terrific.

Committeeman's Views.

Editor News-Journal:

The farm program for national defense, as a committeeman sees it, looks like the dietitians of the National Farm Board had in mind, if anything, a diet of milk and tomato juice for a maternity hospital, instead of a ration to feed a standing army for national defense.

Why place the extra burden on the local boards and committees of gathering data of that kind, which, when the figures are computed in Washington, I would defy anyone on the staff to read in terms of gross tons in milk, eggs and tomatoes—and what good will it do in the program?

Far be it from me to carry such a program to my neighbors, and have them say when I'm gone—not excluding my wife—, "H-m, he would be doing more for defense if he were home doing his work and minding his own business."

So let the board in Washington come out in person and get such data, only to be scrapped along with the many other farm surveys and censuses that millions of dollars have been spent for.

Contrast Noted

Editor News-Journal:

Vermont deserves a vote of thanks from the Republican party for the leadership her statesmen are providing. Senator Austin's part in introducing a resolution to repeal the neutrality act, Representative Plumley's vigorous support of the arming of merchant ships and Gov. Wills' call for a party caucus to end obstruction of national defense are all encouraging signs that the traditional Republican foreign policy proclaimed by Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root and William Howard Taft will again prevail in party councils.

Ohio, mother of Republican presidents, presents a marked contrast with Vermont. The Buckeye state, which has been the birthplace of seven of the 12 Republican occupants of the White House since Lincoln, now has a Republican governor and two Republican senators, while half of its 24 congressmen are also Republicans.

Of that group, only one has publicly admitted that the greatest nation on earth should concern itself with world affairs; the others are divided into two groups, those who are declared isolationists and those who refuse to say where they stand. The firm conviction of the late William Howard Taft, great Ohio statesman and authority on international affairs, that the United States must use force, when necessary, to attain and keep peace among all nations, has been repudiated not only in his own state, but even in his own household. A Republican may again be elected president, but that Republican is not likely to come from Ohio.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Find Midwest Is Not Isolationist, Confidence In Leadership Lacking

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One of the Merry-Go-Rounders has spent the past two weeks taking a quick turn through the Middle West from Ohio to Missouri, generally considered the cradle of isolation and the area which Roosevelt has to swing if he wants a unified nation behind his foreign policies.

For years that area has been much more interested in Mississippi barges than battleships and felt just as safe from invasion as the Russian peasants along the Volga river. Foreign policy was something they remembered only from the days when they recited in school George Washington's Farewell Message on entangling alliances.

But today, as far as this observer can ascertain, the Middle West is not isolationist. Nor is it sold on Roosevelt's policies. It is in a confused condition, fumbling betwixt and between.

For this first time in the history of the Midwest, its people are awakening to the fact that they cannot remain isolationist, that the airplane and modern science have narrowed the Atlantic to the 1914 width of the English Channel. They know that the chain of new defense arsenals and factories from St. Paul to Tulsa and Houston, down the backbone of America instead of along the Atlantic seaboard, mean a revolutionary change in the defense of the country. And they are about ready to believe that if Hitler wins, this nation might even be invaded.

What Is Policy?

IMPORTANT and astounding as is this new thinking, people are a long way yet from going along with Roosevelt's policies. This is chiefly true because people do not seem to know whether Roosevelt has any clear-cut foreign policy.

They would like to know; and a great number would be willing to follow the president—even into war—if they trusted him. A surprising number even think that entrance into the war may be necessary and that it would be better to get it over soon rather than drag it out indefinitely. But they are confused by the failure of the president to chart the course.

Also they distrust all the conflicting information they get from Washington.

For instance, they remember that Roosevelt announced in the most categoric terms that the destroyer Greer was attacked first by a Nazi submarine. But later, they know, Secretary of the Navy Knox sent a report to the senate that a British airplane first attacked the Nazi U-boat, and that the Greer actually was bearing down on the submarine when it turned back and fired.

So when the Kearny is torpedoed, the average Midwesterner is skeptical as to what really happened.

Navy Censorship.

AGAIN, the average Main Streeter had no idea that the U. S. navy was putting guns on Panama's ships until a couple of them were sunk and Panama objected to the guns. Most Midwesterners didn't care very much if U. S guns were on Panama ships, and a lot approved. But they would like to have known about it in advance, instead of having it leak out by accident.

Result is that they now wonder what else has been going on that they don't know about.

Also the navy's censorship has given rise to a lot of wild rumors about shooting matches on the high seas, plus far more suspicion than is justified about secret international moves made by the White House.

Result—the biggest complaint you hear in the Midwest is: "If the president would only tell us what he's doing! We're not children! We know we have to help Russia even if the Communists don't believe in religion. But why does the president have to make such a queer announcement about the Russians bringing back religion?" Is he trying to fool us?"

That's about what it boils down to. Folks in that part of the country feel they are out of knee-breeches. They don't get much kick out of sleight-of-hand in these serious times. And while they don't want war, they might be willing to go to war if they were led, not blindfold, but with their eyes open.

FDR's Bogging Details.

ALMOST one year ago, shortly after Roosevelt was re-elected for a third term, Russell Leffingwell, a partner of the mighty house of J. P. Morgan, called at the White House. Roosevelt and Leffingwell have been on the opposite sides of many fights, but despite that they enjoy an old friendship dating back to the days of Woodrow Wilson when FDR was assistant secretary of the navy and Leffingwell was under secretary of the treasury.

So Leffingwell volunteered to his old friend this frank piece of advice:

"You have two big jobs, Mr. President. One is to be president, the other to lead the nation. And as I look back on it, that was the one great thing Woodrow Wilson forgot. That was why he lost the country after the war.

"He got snarled up in the details of administration and forgot the broader problem of leadership. And that was why Herbert Hoover never could lift up the country and lead it on the road out of the depression. He got bogged down with administration details. He forgot to lead the nation."

Leffingwell has not been to the White House lately. But if he had, he could point out very truthfully that Roosevelt, as never before, is out of touch with the people. For eight years he made periodic trips across the country. No president ever travelled as much as he. His critics called it politics, but whatever the label, the real fact was that he made the country acquainted with what he was doing. He led the nation.

But today Roosevelt's time is taken up with admirals, war strategists, diplomats and the details of defense. He has his nose to the grindstone as never before. He sees no more of the country, gets no more feel of the people than he can snatch from the train window between Washington and Hyde Park.

And in the Midwest, at least, the people miss his leadership.

Capitol Chaff.

CAPITAL chuckle of the week: "What is Congress? A nuthouse run by the inmates." . . . Senator Gerald Nye, from agricultural North Dakota, got an unexpected political spanking from M. W. Thatcher, Washington representative of the powerful Farmers Union and national grain coops. He denounced Nye for spending too much time making isolationist speeches and "forgetting the farmer"; simultaneously praised North Dakota Representative Usher Burdick for helping the farmer. . . . Oklahoma's eloquent Senator Josh Lee, a militant New Dealer, expects to be opposed for re-election next year by Governor "Red" Phillips, diehard foe of the Roosevelt regime.

Got a Pup?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HAVE you got a pup? Just a common, ordinary, mongrel pup with a straggly tail . . . and a floppy ear . . . and a grin? You have? Or had? And you'll never forget? Then listen:

"There are times when only a dog will do
For a friend . . . When you're beaten,
Sick and blue—
And the world's all wrong—
For he won't care
If you break and cry,
Or grouch and swear,
For he'll let you know
As he licks your hands,
That he's downright sorry—
And understands."

Don Blanding wrote that. Remember his "Vagabond's House?" You have to be a vagabond yourself to know a dog that well. So does the dog.

I'm thinking of Pluto. He's my pup. Bought him, when he was only a half-pint of wiggle, from the little old lady who saves and loves strays. Kissed my nose and chewed my ear exactly three seconds after we'd sealed the deal. We've been partners ever since.

Somewhere along Pluto's family tree there was a Labrador setter. Know the breed? Strange outfits. Large, black, rambly fellows. Big as a calf, with about the same stance. Must have a hinge, midway along his spine, so he can wag in sections. Looks about as lazy and worthless as they make 'em . . . but don't bet any of your own money on it. He's just resting up . . . waiting until there's some action worthy of his attention. Then hang on to your wad of gum, stranger, for he'll head out, all ways at once.

Told you he was strange. All those Labrador setters are. Somewhere back in the lost ages, someone trained the original grandpap to fetch ducks. Must have been some mighty earnest instruction, for fetching is the best thing they've done ever since. Only Pluto doesn't confine himself to ducks. Matter of fact, there aren't any ducks within miles, but that doesn't cramp Pluto's style. It isn't the bird that counts with him—it's the fetching.

We pass each other a score of times each day, doing the rounds of the ranch. And, sure as our trails meet up, Pluto brings me a present. Sometimes a stick . . . or an old shoe . . . a feather . . . a pine needle. But always there's something on the southeast side of his grin. With his eyes looking up . . . deep and deeper into mine . . . and that screwy tail waiting to wag. Testing my mood, which isn't always of the best. That doesn't bother him either. Fair weather or foul, Pluto fetches. Brings me a pine cone—and his heart.

Sometimes at night when I get to remembering I strike off—alone. But not for long. Out of the hush he'll come charging, all of a blackness with the night. Then gentle down till he's quiet as mist on the grass and I'll feel a wet nose on my hand, or perhaps a love gift that maybe will help. So I scratch him behind the ear . . . and somehow the misery's gone.

Just a pup. Mongrel at that. But I'm hoping, when I've served my shift and start on that lonely new trail, that there in the darkness, around the first bend, I'll find my old pal—awagging his love . . . bringing me a gift of love.

A Farmer's Diary

Two College Boys

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I SAT down in a restaurant in a college town, and two fine appearing young men came in and sat down just in front of me. I saw that one was a country boy, for when he put his hat on the tree, his hands were rough and broad, with the broadened fingers that come from handling a fork or plow. Each forefinger, near the palm, had a deep dark score that no soap could quite wash out. His face was brown with sun tan, his hair was dark and coarse, his deep brown eyes were alert and most inquisitive. He sat at the side where I could observe his profile.

The other young man was taller, with sleek blond hair and a pink and white complexion. He was immaculately dressed, and he spoke with nice modulation and graceful language. I listened more than casually while I ate, for I admired the courtesy and comradeship of these two friends.

When the waitress had served them, the more sophisticated lad reached for both tickets. "My treat, John," he declared. "I brought you here to get your advice on something that's got me worried. You often see things from a different angle than I do—you give me perspective."

"I didn't know," said John, "that you had a trouble in the world."

"That's what you think," the other rejoined. "The girl I'm going with—you've seen her—she's the pick of the whole campus. I'm crazy about that girl—and I've got plenty of competition. That fact brings worries and expenses with it. What few people know is that since Dad died, my mother has gone to work and is supporting me here, until I finish college. I don't see how she can do it, but she sends me $20 a week. Besides that she knitted me this sweater, and sent it to me yesterday. Mother's been wonderful—but now she writes that she'd like to come down to the game next week and meet my friends—and I don't want her to."

"Why not?"

"Well, she's got a scar that spoils her face—from a wreck one time. And I'm afraid my girl wouldn't understand and would think her 'queer.' Mother isn't stylish—and you know how two women can be..." his voice trailed off into silence. He looked at his plate.

John threw back his head, and I saw he had something to say. The next moment he said it, bluntly, as one fellow to another.

"You're ashamed of your mother, when she's the one who has made you all that you are! Looks to me like any girl worth her salt 'd be glad to see you give your mother fair treatment—and if she's not worth her salt, it'd be lots cheaper to be rid of her sooner than later. Better have your Mom up, and show her a whalin' good time! You'll learn something."

I had finished my lunch. I went out, satisfied.

THEATERS

Streamlined Musical.

Story of gals and gobs set to the music of modern tunesmiths, "Navy Blues," opening Saturday at the Ohio features Jack Oakie and Jack Haley as a couple of sailors who meet up with adventure and romance in Honolulu. Ann Sheridan, the "oomph" girl, and Martha Raye, slap-happy comedienne, are the main reasons for the sailors' adventures. Oakie and Haley are up to all kinds of tricks as they try to filch the shipmate's paychecks and pawn the battleship trophies. They even go so far as to accuse Martha Raye of being an international spy. The cast includes a large singing and dancing chorus in some spectacular production numbers directed by Felix Seymour, once a Zeigfeld dance director.

Smart Set Comedy.

Robert Taylor and Joan Crawford are co-starred again in the film adaptation of Rachel Crother's delightful comedy, "When Ladies Meet," opening Saturday at the Madison. Herbert Marshall and Greer Garson are also teamed in this gay story of a woman novelist, played by Miss Crawford, who falls in love with her publisher, Herbert Marshall, then unwittingly confides the fact to the latter's wife while unaware of the matrimonial relationship. Taylor place the man in love with the novelist and Miss Garson, the wife of Marshall. A gangster picture which deals in comedy not killings is "Buy Me That Town," showing as the second feature. Constance Moore and Lloyd Nolan head the cast.

Maisie Episode.

The latest adventures of Ann Sothern's battling Brooklyn show girl are depicted in the comedy, "Ringside Maisie," opening today at the Ritz. In this episode the chorine launches a boxer on the type of career he really desires and falls in love with his hard-boiled manager. George Murphy plays the manager and Robert Sterling is cast as the boxer. Maxie Rosenbloom and Jack LaRue are other players. Roy Rogers plays the role of Jesse James in the second picture, "Jesse James at Bay," in which the western character is presented as a Robin Hood type of fellow who robbed the rich to give to the poor.

Island Adventure.

A young lawyer with a split personality that gives him some of the characteristics of a "Dr. Hyde," is the central character in "Mercy Island," showing at the Park. When, due to his own willfulness he is cast away with five others on a desert island, his evil nature asserts itself and he sets out to bring the island hermit, a fugitive, to the attention of the law. Ray Middleton plays the role of the lawyer and Gloria Dickson that of his wife. Don Douglas is in the cast. "Saddlemates," a western, with the "3 Mesquiteers," is the second attraction.

African Setting.

Drama, mystery and adventure are combined in "South of Suez," opening today at the Majestic. The action takes place in a South Africa diamond mine where George Brent, a soldier of fortune, meets his share of murder, theft and intrigue at the hands of the mine owner, played by George Tobias. Brenda Marshall and Lee Patrick provide the romantic interest and the cast includes James Stephenson and Eric Blore. George Houston is starred in the co-feature, "Frontier Fury."

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

The stories of men with inventive genius have long been of interest to young readers. Two new books of this kind which have recently been published are now available at Mansfield Public library.

NICHOLAS ARNOLD, TOOLMAKER, by Marion Lansing—Arnold's name does not appear in history books but without his help the work of Samuel Slater and of Eli Whitney could not have been as great. Nick was an apprentice in a blacksmith shop for three years and later went to work with Eli Whitney. Together they worked out the plan of making quantities of machinery by assembling uniform parts. Formerly each machine was made separately with hand-made parts. Aside from being a story with historical interest this is a good boy's adventure story for the junior high age.

RAILWAY ENGINEER, by Clara I. Judson—George Stephenson was a poor miner's son in England. He was eager to earn to help with expenses and he had ideas about engines. His work developed the use of steam engines for speed in travel as well as for power as in stationary engines. His most successful locomotive, the Rocket, is familiar to many because of the race with a stagecoach which it easily won.

HEALTH BILL FACES COUNCIL

Ordinance To Extend Board's Power Outside City To Be Sought at Meeting.

Council will be asked at its November meeting to consider an ordinance which would extend the authority of the Mansfield board of health over the inspection of the city's water and sewer lines to consumers living outside the city.

Councilman George C. Kyle, chairman of the council's sewer committee, said he would ask that the ordinance be drawn up for presentation at the next meeting.

Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, following council's last meeting when no action was taken on the inspection of plumbing connected to city lines, told council that it would be its own responsibility if an epidemic arose from pollution of the water system from water consumers living outside the city.

The city plumbing inspector at present cannot inspect the plumbing in homes outside the city, although those homes may be using city water and dumping waste into city sewers. Wild asked that the inspector's power be extended so that the central system could be protected from disease.

Kyle said that he believed that inspection of any plumbing connected with the city service lines should be given adequate inspection.

'Dutch Live Only to Sabotage Germans'

That's Statement of Exiled Official In London, He Adds 'We Talk Little.'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of underground anti-Nazi activities in the occupied countries of Europe.)

By MERRILL MUELLER
(INS Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—Thousands of Dutchmen are in concentration camps today and thousands more have been tortured by their Nazi overlords but the quiet, underground campaign of passive resistance and sabotage continues in Holland with ever increasing effectiveness.

Dutchmen, stolid by nature, believe in action rather than talk.

The reticent free Dutch government in London claims that only 51 Dutchmen have been executed, and slightly more than 400 imprisoned or sent to concentration camps for open resistance to German occupation.

The official viewpoint was given International News Service today by a spokesman for the free Dutch government.

He said:

"Dutchmen live only to sabotage the German occupation and regain the independence of their country, but only two instances of sabotage have been spectacular.

"We have adopted a policy of talking as little as possible about what we know is going on in Holland, on the simple theory of protecting those working from within for our country's liberation.

"The official German radio has confirmed our information that 51 Dutchmen have been executed for sabotage, arson, or in reprisal for the killing of German sentries, but we have a well-founded belief that the actual number is far greater.

"The Germans are cleverly hiding executions by claiming that convicted persons have been given the benefit of German justice, and have had their death sentences commuted to imprisonment.

"Some 400 have been listed by the Germans as imprisoned. We believe the figures are closer to several thousands in concentration camps—and only the Germans can tell us how many they have tortured to death."

Unlike other "free governments," the Dutch have a strict policy of stopping publication of information relative to the arrival of Dutch men, women and children who have escaped from Holland, somehow crossed the channel or reached Portugal, and thence England. However, small parties of these people continue to arrive each week.

For the benefit of International News Service, the official spokesman interviewed one of the latest arrivals, a man who will soon join other Dutchmen in the Royal Air force. Then he translated for him.

He said:

"He confirms what I tell you. Our passive resistance remains strong but spectacular.

"There have been no large-scale executions since the two bloody weeks when the Germans executed 18 Dutchmen for destruction of the big Veluwe ammunition dump, and seriously damaging the German freighter Rotterdam."

The Dutch sabotage may be unspectacular but it certainly is most effective. The Veluwe ammunition dump, it is known, blew up with such force that it seriously damaged a nearby village, while the German freighter Rotterdam was almost broken in two when a heavy loading crane mysteriously collapsed through its hold.

The spokesman gestured toward the young man and continued:

"This boy first told us that the Hague mysteriously caught fire last month, destroying most of the documents in the German control office there. This month the Reichwehr's food control center at Rotterdam burned to the ground with heavy loss.

"The Germans ordered half a million pigs slaughtered and delivered to the army. The pigs were slaughtered all right, but the carcases just disappeared into the Dutch 'black markets.'

"Every Dutchman takes great delight in giving Germans the wrong directions to anywhere and, at the same time, hoards his sugar to mix with molasses. Then the mixture is poured into the gasoline tanks of German army cars and trucks—raising hell with their road communications.

"The 'Gruene Polizei'—Nazi riffraff who are charged with maintaining civil control—are answering these measures today with new waves of extreme brutality that are likely to increase our underground casualties."

The spokesman stopped and looked at me for a moment.

Then he said very quietly:

"But the fight will go on."

There are nearly 2,000,000 French prisoners held by the Germans in occupied France, Germany, Poland, Austria and Czecho-Slovakia.

CHILD CONSERVATION CLUB HAS PRORGAM

Mrs. Ray Paulson and Mrs. Robert Dunson Entertain Members of Study Club at the Former's Home, Fairlawn Avenue.

MRS. RAY PAULSON, 205 Fairlawn avenue, entertained members of the Child Conservation club Thursday evening at her home, with Mrs. Robert Dunson as associate. Twenty were in attendance and participated in a round table discussion on "Sex Education."

Plans were discussed for a covered dish dinner to be held Nov. 1 for the members and their husbands at the Prospect park pavilion.

During the business session the group endorsed the half mill levy on fire equipment. Mrs. Orville Kibler was elected secretary to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. Russell Doehla.

Buffet luncheon was served at a late hour with appointments in yellow and white. Mrs. Joseph Mayer presided at the serving table. The next meeting will be held Nov. 13 with Frend Boals as guest speaker. His subject will be "Safety Training." Mrs. William Joiner, 345 West Third street, will be hostess, assisted by Mrs. Wilbur Campbell.

New Officers Assume Duties At Meeting

Members of the Ladies of the 37th Division and the Veterans held their regular business session Thursday evening at Memorial hall. Miss Mildred North, newly elected president, was assisted at the meeting by the recently elected officers, Mrs. Floyd Buzzard, vice president, and Mrs. C. E. Sanderson, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Ralph Johnson, chaplain; Mrs. Vera Yoder, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Vaneta Page, historian; Mrs. Harry Uplinger, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Corrine Fleming, floral committee.

Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table decorated with Halloween appointments. Mrs. Floyd Buzzard and her committee were in charge of arrangements. Bridge was the diversion of the evening and the prize was won by Mrs. Uplinger. The next meeting will be held Nov. 27 at Memorial hall.

Thursday Art Club Has Meet

Bridge was in play at five tables last evening when members of the Thursday Art club were entertained at the home of Mrs. George Dunham, Sturges avenue. Mrs. Howard Almy assisted Mrs. Dunham. High score awards were presented to Mrs. Sam Hoover and Glen Armold. At a late hour a luncheon was served at the small tables with appointments in yellow and white. Chrysanthemums and lighted tapers were the decorations.

The next meeting of the club will be held Nov. 13 with Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wittemire, Columbia avenue.

SEWING CIRCLE.

Members of the St. Peter's Sewing Circle met at the D. of I. club rooms, Bird building, Thursday for all-day sewing for the Red Cross. A covered-dish dinner was served at noon. The next meeting will be held Nov. 13 at the home of Mrs. R. E. Imhoff, 186 West Second street.

Women's Hair Will Be Worn Plainer Now

Although we have enjoyed seasons of frills and furbelows of adornment in our hair, we may soon face a more sober time when our locks will have to stand on their own for beauty and attractiveness. Already in England the war has affected feminine coiffures and they are now of the most extreme simplicity—no pins, no bows, no ornaments of any kind.

News from America's beauty parlors now points in the same direction. As an example, beauty operators are now voting to charge extra for hairpins used in coiffures because of their rising cost. The silk shortage is bound to affect hair ornamentation and national defense is going to need those materials which ordinarily go into pretties for milady. One manufacturer of beauty treatment equipment recently predicted that even the beauty equipment of tomorrow will be made of plastics and wood because of the defense demand for present materials.

But maybe it is a blessing in disguise, because too often women depend on dyes and other artificial means to highlight their hair, when, as a matter of fact, natural, lustrous locks are far more attractive by themselves. With a good brush and the liquid soapless shampoo with conditioner added, which is new on the market, we should be able to show off hair that has as its single ornament its own natural highlights and glowing color.

Bride Honored By Choir at Sheriff Home

The first in a series of prenuptial parties for Miss Margery Dise, bride-elect of Merle Spurgeon, was given last night by the choir of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Sheriff, 420 Sherman Place, with 16 in attendance.

Guests spent the evening in games and contests and prizes were won by Merle Spurgeon, Harry Meier, Mrs. Florence Funston and the honoree. The winners presented their gifts to the honored guest. Members of the choir gave Miss Dise a gift of linen.

At the close of the evening a luncheon was served with appointments in keeping with the Halloween season.

Sunday School Class Meets at Hymans

The Do-Be-There Sunday school class of the Ontario Community church met recently for a Halloween party at the home of Miss Mary Hyman, with Miss Betty Danals as associate hostess. Fifteen guests were present. Following a short business meeting contests were enjoyed with prizes being won by Miss Mary Henry and Miss Rhea Downs. Prizes were also awarded to Miss Ila Mae Smith and Miss Jeanette Baker for the funniest and best Halloween costumes.

Later in the evening refreshments were served at a long table decorated with Halloween appointments. The next meeting will be held Nov. 18 with Miss Betty House and Miss Margaret Henry as hostesses.

BUENA VISTA CLUB.

Mrs. Gaylord Van Tilburg, Ashland road, was hostess to members of the Buena Vista Community club Thursday afternoon at her home. Eight members and two guests, Mrs. Wilbur Balliett and Mrs. Robert Van Tilburg were in attendance. Attractive Hats for Mother and Daughter

Another snitch from the grown-ups—a brown velour bonnet with carefully manipulated brim. Fine for keeping an eleven-year-old unrumpled all day.

Upward, forward, sideways, north by nor'east by north—is the way the fashion winds blow big brims for fall. You see the possibilities in this big black beret designed by Madame Pauline. Wear it and people will mention the lovely profile you didn't know you had.

A navy beret doing a sister act with mother's is a builder-upper for any fashion-minded youngster. The red leather cat is for luck insurance.

Naturally Curly Hair Needs Care

By MME. QUI VIVE.

Whether or not the girls with naturally wavy hair appreciate their blessing as much as they should, your beauty reporter cannot say. She has heard some of the curly lambs do considerable bleating. They claim that after the shampoo the topmop is more or less unmanagable, that it looks nicest when it is most in need of ducking. Well, those of us who have to trot-trot to beauty shops to get our locks boiled and frizzled think the girls with naturally wavy hair are lucky, that we could bear with the conditions of which they complain.

Many of the blessed lassies take their undulations for granted, are not wise to the possibilities of improvement and arrangement. They just haven't the knack of making the best of the material they have to work with. Curly hair likes to be petted. The permanent wave has to be coddled if it is to look like anything.

The casual shampoo is responsible for many waves that do not qualify. Let the slightest film of soap remain on the shafts and they uncoil from their pretty spirals and go limp. A good cleansing medium must be used; it must be rinsed away with a spray and a strong current of water.

After the last rinsing the hair should have a steaming. Turn on the hot water, hold the head over the bowl, lifting the strands so the steam will penetrate the growth. That trick tightens the curl. It works the same on naturally curly hair as on the permanent. Cold water strings out the shafts.

When giving yourself a finger wave, or when having one at the beautytorium, the great need is to let the hair follow its own inclinations. It has its pattern, refuses to dip down when it wants to scoot up into a wave line. Operators who do not understand that fact are likely to make the hair less curly. It will be rebellious. It wants to live its own life, and why not?

Certain dyes will destroy the natural undulation. They coat the shafts with pigment; the spring in the shaft disappears.

Stand-offish hair that is too frizzy is difficult to manage. In order to make it form a pleasing design, it must be treated with brilliantine before water is used.

Curly tops complain that cutting leaves stubby ends. The ends can be given a permanent. Timing must be brief, as the natural curl waves quickly. Metal curlers can be used to form ringlets which will stay strong from one shampoo to another.

Frizzy hair, having a lot of bounce, is improved by thinning and tapering. If it is cut, it should be cut along the wave lines; it takes a clever shearer to give a first-class trim.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Oh Dicky, Dicky!" my heart sang joyously, for I was almost bursting with pride in his resourcefulness, which had prevented the gangster of the train from telephoning Marion's captors about the secret code.

But my father was talking again, and I set myself to listen.

"So you see," he finished, "the secret of the code letter is safe. Only the gangster of the train knew of it, and he only sketchily, from overhearing some of your telephone conversation.

Second Captive Won't Be Freed.

"He had provided, as he thought, against a possible slip-up by phoning the leader of the gunmen to get it from you at the hotel, if no countermanding message came from him. But when Richard put him off the train, he realized that he must get in touch with his fellows at once."

I could keep silent no longer. A frantic question tore from my lips.

"You aren't going to set him free because he can trail Carolyn, are you?"

My father looked intently at me, and I knew that he had fathomed the depths of my terror.

"No, my darling," he said. "This 'collegiate gangster' will remain incommunicado 'for the duration,' or until we have Marion safely back with us again."

"Thank God!" I said fervently, and Harry Underwood at my side echoed my paean.

"Thank God, indeed—and Richard," my father said. "And now, my dear, have you any further questions? I have told you everything, I think."

"Just two questions, please."

"Name them," he said.

"Will it be possible to find out anything about Carolyn if that man is in custody? He was the only link we had with her."

"There will be others," my father said confidently. "And I have the two best women operatives in their line on their way to Weirhampton. That end of it is safe."

"I am so relieved," I said. "But—is there no clue whatever to Marion's whereabouts?"

"Only the one which is before your own eyes," he said.

"You mean," I said, "that Marion must be somewhere in the city, because of this second letter with its city postmark?"

"Either in the city or near by," he said. "There hasn't been time to get a letter here from up in the mountains, where we thought she must be hidden."

"Her code letter indicated mountains," I said stubbornly.

Marion In Or Near City.

"But suppose," he said patiently, "she is hidden somewhere in a very high building—how would she convey that information to us?"

"Oh, I see," I said banally. "Mountains would be the only word she could be sure Mary would connect with a high place.

"Just as seashore would indicate that she was in a basement somewhere. Doesn't 'would' mean seashore in the code, and misspelled 'wood' it means the opposite."

"Yes, that is right," I said, my excitement rising.

"Has she used either word in this letter to her mother?" my father asked, although I was sure he knew the answer as well as I did.

"No, there isn't anything like that in this letter," I said.

"It doesn't matter," my father said. "But I think we can reasonably deduce that Marion is being held in some high apartment building—perhaps in a penthouse. Don't you think so, Harry?"

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, October 25.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

ALTHOUGH affairs may be expected to move at a lively and fairly successful pace yet there is great danger of overdoing or being carried to extremes by hasty, impetuous, quarrelsome conduct which is likely to precipitate jealousy, enmity and reprisals, this from private antagonisms as well as from groups or public bodies. With proper restraints and with the application of new routines and quick grasp of opportunities there may be benefits, mainly through writings, publicity, travel or contracts.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly active and progressive year if they will move quickly to grasp passing opportunities. Writings, publicity, contracts and travel are under very fortunate rulership.

A child born on this day although versatile and energetic may be its own undoing by its wayward, irascible and impetuous temperament.

Family Nags Her About Boyfriend

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am the youngest in the family and the only unmarried child at home. One sister married about ten years ago and she and her husband still live with us. None of them ever seems to make it pleasant for me at home, and when I expect company, everything is topsy turvy and I'm just miserable.

I've been going with a young man for almost a year, and he comes to see me two or three times a week. When he doesn't come over or call on the phone, my family start nagging about how he neglects me and say that he is out with another girl, etc. My boy friend is very thoughtful and well-mannered and seems to be very fond of me. The only complaint I could possible have is that, occasionally, when he sets a definite time to telephone and I wait for his call, he doesn't keep his promise.

Often I've thought of leaving home and taking an apartment somewhere alone, as I have a well-paying position and also have a little money which my grandmother left me. But I don't want anyone to gossip about me, and besides I'm very fond of my parents and don't want to hurt them. I'm 23 years old.

BEWILDERED.

Talk it over with your parents—you're fond of them, and naturally don't want to be the cause of talk in your home town on account of setting up your own establishment. No doubt your mother will take it up with your sister and brother-in-law and have them give you some consideration.

I know it must be very trying to have the house in confusion when guests are expected, and then to have the family nag you about your boy friend. You might playfully ask them would they like to have him live under the parental roof as they are doing?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My daughter is going to be married in six weeks to a young man who has enlisted in the Navy. The question is, as his rating is only that of Seaman, must he be married in his uniform and carry one of those funny little hats? They always look like pastry shells to me.

This young man comes from an excellent family, and he would like to have some of his college class-mates act as ushers. But if he has to wear a "gob's uniform," he would certainly be outshone by his ushers. As my prospective son-in-law is away at the present time and will not be back until just before the wedding, could you give me some correct information?

PUZZLED?

I supose that the young sailor will apply for authorized leave. Ten days, I believe, is usually given for a wedding. I called the Navy department on receipt of your letter and they tell me if a man is away on authorized leave he may wear civilian's clothes. My best wishes to the young couple.

Please don't refer to sailors' hats as "pastry shells"—they've covered some mighty fine young men.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

BLOCK HIS ESCAPE

Your effort to build up a neat lead-throwing end-play is wasted if you allow the victim to have a means of escape. When he is put in the lead, it should be impossible for him to lead back anything except something which will give you the trick you are seeking. This usually entails elimination of certain suits from his hand, or from your own hand and dummy. As a consequence of this stripping process, he has no alternative but to do something which is disastrous to him.

Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	4 ♠

Two duplicate players tried to make that 4-Spade contract, after West led his club J, East overtaking, cashing a second club and then firing a trump. In each case South won it and led his last club to ruff in the dummy. Then one declarer began to go wrong. He cashed a second trump, the heart K and A, then led a third trump to his own hand, so he could finesse the diamond 10. East won with the J and had no problem for a return. He led a heart, which South ruffed, and a second diamond finesse was tried, the Q losing to the K, so that he was down one.

At the other table, after winning the third trick, a trump, the declarer ruffed his last club in the dummy, took in the heart K and A, ruffed a heart in his own hand, led the spade 4 to the A and ruffed the dummy's last heart, then finessed the diamond 10. When East won this, he could do nothing but lead a diamond back into the A-Q or his club 8, which could be ruffed by the dummy while the declarer discarded a diamond. This prevented any more diamond losers, the play finishing with the Diamond A and two trumps.

REPORTS TYPHUS THREATENS TO SWEEP EUROPE

British Expert Calls on U. S. England To Stem Spread of Epidemic.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: On Tuesday of this week, the house of commons was informed by Dr. Leslie Hayden Guest, former parliamentary secretary to the ministry of health, that "one of the greatest" epidemics of typhus fever in European history is sweeping Spain. The United States health department has confirmed this statement and even heavily-censored Madrid admitted there had been an epidemic this spring and expressed fears of another this winter. International News Service presents an exclusive statement from Dr. Guest, emphasizing the gravity of the situation and proposing Anglo-American measures to prevent all Europe from being ravaged by disease.)

By DR. LESLIE HAYDEN GUEST, M. P.

(As Told to International News Service)

LONDON—It is most imperative that British and American authorities intervene to stem the growing typhus fever epidemic which already is manifesting itself in Spain.

Typhus is most unusual in the summer. Yet according to official and unofficial Spanish sources, plus information from members of the Rockefeller institute, show that already there is an epidemic and it is likely to spread devastatingly this winter.

The epidemic is completely unassociated with the lack of food, but is an inevitable result of the Spanish Civil war, during which masses of the population were deprived of the opportunity for personal hygiene, which is a corollary of warfare.

No stretch of the imagination can envisage what is most likely to follow the present conflict in Europe, especially among sanitarily backward nations which now have been overrun.

There already are evidences of a typhus outbreak in Russia and Yugoslavia to which the Germans are cynically indifferent. They are divesting these and all occupied countries of the most essential preventatives of epidemics in order that the German population will benefit.

I suggest improvisation of an Anglo-American army medical mission, although owing to our present commitments America must bear a major portion.

Unless this is immediately instituted, the post-war death-roll from disease will be most likely to outnumber those killed in fighting, with women and children the chief sufferers, as evidenced by the terrific death-roll from Spanish grippe (influenza) which followed the last war.

Army medical men are most competent to deal with such epidemics, as they are most experienced in scientific methods of combating mass diseases.

(Editor's Note: Dr. Guest was a leading member of the British medical mission in the last war.)

It is most essential that civilized nations be prepared to organize against the unavoidable scourge which assuredly will follow the war.

It is not going to be a racial or political question, but a matter of gravest concern to the future of humanity.

GEN. JOHNSON: Lehigh Called Victim of Hit-Run Attack

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—It is no kidding that there will be an effort to step our war-production up to one hundred billion dollars in two years on the argument that this will insure the obliteration of Hitler in two years. It is more than somebody's pipe dream. It is an actual project being laid out on the drawing-board.

Johnson

That is about 100 per cent of our annual national income or production a few years ago but it is insisted that this very governmental spending will raise our national income to 100 billions per year and that, therefore, this spending will be only 50 per cent of national income.

This is pretty high-handed hocus-pocus. Heretofore it has been pretty generally supposed that national income was really the total production of goods and services that combined to increase national wealth or consumption. How can production of things to be destroyed, exploded, burned-up, sunk in the ocean or sent overseas at the expense of all the people be called an increase in national income? It isn't. It is a dissipation of national wealth. You still can't lift yourself by your own boot-straps.

O. K. Skip that. Go on to the next. Who says that fifty billions of war production will destroy Hitler? How? When? Where? There is an economic side to this war. There is also a military and naval side. What is the strategic plan here? It is true that it can't be laid out in detail. War conditions change too fast.

But what is the "general directive?" There isn't any and that is why it seems so absurd to budget expenditures beyond human precedent for a purpose not revealed.

Of course the answer is: "We must do our utmost. We are not doing it. Therefore we outline this great program as proof that we are doing all we can."

But just spending money is not effective defense. It may be the precise reverse of that. It may be effective destruction. Also, as has been remarked here before, you can't measure defense in dollars alone. It isn't sold by the yard. It is a question of tonnage, usability, use and effectiveness of the munitions produced. Types of guns, tanks, munitions and, above all, of planes are in a constant state of flux and change.

Our job is to build up our productive capacity on a flexible basis and then be prepared to produce and deliver what is wanted, when and where it is wanted to produce the best result.

Almost no thought is being given to these principles. The emphasis seems to be on breath-taking statistics of present and prospective expenditures. No worthwhile thought at all seems to be given to the effect of this kind of avalanche operation on the economic structure of our country — employment, employers, the great mass of our civilian population—or on our post-war future.

Obviously this situation needs some kind of general staff of grand strategy — economic, military, naval and financial. That doesn't mean any Austrian-Gaulic council with which Napoleon had so much fun. Under our system, the president is the one commander-in-chief. But, whether or not he decides to take the public into his confidence more definitely than to talk about "arsenals of democracy" or "the four freedoms" he ought to be willing to tell his aims to such a staff, ask them to study the problem and report how best to achieve them and not leave it to the sporadic outbursts of such gentlemen as Stacy May, statistician of OPM, William Batt and others who in their specialties may be the best we have, but who in the field of armed operations are complete tyros.

RAP ICKES FOR 'MANUFACTURED' OIL SHORTAGE

Senators Take Secretary To Task After He Reveals East Has Gasoline.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Members of a senate oil investigating committee today scathingly took to task Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes following his announcement that there is now no gasoline shortage.

"That makes it unanimous," Sen. M'Daniel (D) Tex., commented. "It was purely a manufactured scare from first to last and no one ever thought there was any shortage except Mr. Ickes alone."

Sen. Maloney (D) Conn., chairman of the special committee which formally reported several weeks ago that there was no shortage of oil at the time that Ickes was calling for curtailment of gasoline sales, would say only that he was "pleased" at the secretary's latest statement.

Maloney said he would call the group together next week to consider the possibility of winding up its business.

The statements came after Ickes announced that the gas shortage was over, asked that all restrictions against sale of the commodity be lifted, and reported that Britain was returning to this country another 25 oil tankers, making a total of 40 of the vessels which have been returned to American trade.

Sen. Connally (D) Tex., immediately dispatched a request to Ickes that these tankers be made available for hauling oil from the Texas gulf coast to the industrial east.

O'Daniel, meanwhile, charged that the asserted shortage "was all manufactured in the first place to promote a pipe line from the Texas oil fields which the people of Texas don't want."

Sen. Danaher (R) Conn., said the reported shortage had caused confusion and loss in the east and New England areas, and added:

"Apparently Mr. Ickes has added his own confusion to an already badly muddled situation—but it is typical."

Saddest pupil in Mansfield high school today was Don Smoke, 61 Chestnut street. Don had two 25-cent student tickets for tonight's Mansfield football game at Massillon. Last night his mother, by accident tossed one of the precious pasteboards in the furnace. Searching frantically for a place to buy another ticket at any price, Don was informed there would be between 5,000 and 6,000 general admission ducats placed on sale at the gate tonight, and immediately resolved to be there when the gate opened.

Probably establishing a new record for the county, Sheriff Frank Robinson's deputies have served the defendants in nine divorce and alimony suits in the past four days. More divorce suits were filed in Richland county last October than in any other month in the county's history, but at the rate the actions have been filed this week, court authorities believe this month will equal or exceed the figure for October, 1940.

Eddie McNew, who holds the concession for refreshments on the Mansfield football special going to Massillon tonight has been kept busy trying to keep up with the influx of fans. After he had managed to get enough helpers to serve persons in the twelve coaches scheduled, two more were added and sent him into a wild flurry for additional help. One of his biggest problems has been a plan to keep a big supply of hot coffee.

A part of a poem from his book, "The Saving Presence," was reproduced with a brief biographical sketch from a recent Sunday News-Journal.

SKIPPER SAYS CREW DIDN'T GLIMPSE SUB

Tells Graphic Story of How Mast Crashed After Torpedo Hit.

(By Associated Press)

FREETOWN, Sierre Leone—The United States-owned freighter Lehigh, sunk 75 miles west of Freetown, is pictured by her skipper as the victim of a hit-and-run torpedo attack from a submarine which none of the crew ever saw.

Capt. Vincent Arkins, the commander, said last night the torpedo struck the Lehigh at 8:55 a. m. Sunday on the starboard side of No. 5 hatch, blasted down the main topmast and injured two of the 44 men aboard.

A falling hatch beam cut off four toes of a seaman, and a junior assistant engineer, Joseph Brady, was shaken up by a fall when deck plates were torn apart beneath him.

Neither before nor after the attack, Captain Arkins said, was the submarine seen, and there was no offer of aid.

All four lifeboats were manned and launched by the men aboard—the crew of 39, one man working his way and four Spanish stowaways—50 minutes after the explosion and headed east to Freetown. The men were picked up by British vessels.

The Lehigh, with two large American flags on her sides and a 30-ton cargo consigned to New York from Bilbao, Spain, went down 34 minutes after the last boat had pulled away. She was to have loaded manganese for the United States at Takoradi, on the Gold Coast.

Believe Torpedo Killed Missing Men

REYKJAVIK, Iceland—(AP)—The 17 known survivors of the crew of the United States-owned freighter Bold Venture believe that the torpedo explosion which sank her in the North Atlantic last Thursday killed the 19 men listed as missing.

A Canadian corvette, light war vessel, was credited with saving the lives of the 17. The corvette crew maneuvered her alongside their foundering lifeboats and picked them up from a cold, rough sea two hours after the Bold Venture went down.

The Bold Venture, a former Danish ship under Panama registry, went down 10 minutes after she was hit, survivors said.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

You Can't Print That!

(A compendium of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead—you've probably guessed right!)

* * *

Ellen is a big motion picture star. Maybe she hasn't won an Academy award — but stick around, she will. And she's big enough and important enough to get the roles she wants at her studio, and to reject the parts she doesn't think are good enough.

Kilgallen

You hear a lot about Ellen these days, and you know a lot about her life from the movie magazines, but you probably don't know about George.

George goes quite a way back in Ellen's life. Way back to the time when she was around Broadway, an aspiring — and unknown—young actress. George was a newspaperman, and when he discovered he loved her and she loved him he started trying to help her.

He used to get publicity blurbs about her into his paper as often as he could without arousing the ire of the managing editor, he begged his pals on other papers to land her picture in the drama sections, and first thing you knew Ellen was going places. At last she went to the place she'd always had her big blue eyes on: Hollywood.

And what happened? You know what happened. You never heard of George in connection with Ellen, did you? That's because, almost as soon as she shook the dust of Broadway off her shoes she shook the memory of George off her heart.

Well, George stayed in New York and worked on his paper and wrote fiction on the side. And now he's gotten his big break, too—his first movie script has been bought by a big film studio, Ellen's studio.

Remember reading all the fuss about the great Ellen refusing to play the part of So-and-So in a certain picture? There was quite a to-do about it, and her studio almost suspended her for it, but in the end it was all straightened out when a pretty ingenue was given the role on the recommendation of Ellen.

Well, the script Ellen rejected was, as you've certainly guessed, the one authored by George. Ellen didn't turn it down just for meanness. There was no way of telling the producers this, but she couldn't play in the picture—because the plot was her story, the true tale of how she'd loved and left George!

But you can't print that. Especially since it's an ill wind that doesn't bring somebody stardom. Because the little ingenue who'll be skyrocketed to fame in the part Ellen rejected—is the girl George is going to marry!

ARRESTED FOR 'PEN' RACKET

Ex-Cleveland Robber Charged With Selling 'Lifted' Magazine Articles.

(By Associated Press)

BUFFALO, N. Y. — Joseph (Specs) Russell, erstwhile Cleveland robber on parole from Ohio penitentiary, is under arrest here for mail fraud and plagiarism in a magazine swindle racket, Police Lieut. C. E. Nowlin reported today.

Nowlin said the prisoner was booked here under the name of Giuseppe Rosselli but that Rosselli and Russell were the same man.

Postoffice Inspector L. J. Brennan said Russell, alias Rosselli, received considerable money from some of the nation's top ranking magazines for articles he "lifted" from one publication, rewrote and sold to another magazine "in one of the most bizarre writing rackets yet uncovered."

Brennan, Inspector Clarence F. Ford and Buffalo police captured Russell after a chase in which several shots were fired.

Brennan said the former Ohio convict, who began writing for magazines while in prison, sold at least 14 articles by-lined with fictitious names and about persons with high-sounding titles who never existed. The material dealt mostly with crime and prison life.

"All of them are downright fakes, we are sure of that," said Ford. "We have evidence that Rosselli, in attempting to make his articles appear authentic, would send along with them affidavits bearing forced signatures."

'Cocktail Hour' Plays Havoc In Home, She Says

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin of New York City, vice president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, believes that "the cocktail hour, the night club and the gaily decorated tavern have really played havoc in many a home."

Speaking at the 68th Ohio W. C. T. U. convention last night, Mrs. Colvin criticized national magazines which, she said, had published advertisements advocating that parents serve alcoholic beverages to their children.

"The subtle liquor advertising in magazines, in the movies and on the radio is designed to reach the woman in the home," she declared. "A woman has no sales resistance and you can sell her beer if you really want to."

Mrs. Colvin predicted that the time will come when women "will rise up in their wrath at such appeals" and suggested that mothers of sons in training camps work for congressional passage of the Sheppard bill banning alcoholic beverages from military camps.

DAYTON—(INS)—An auto-truck collision on route 40 near Arlington, 14 miles northwest of Dayton, killed Mrs. George Barber, 70, of Camarillo, Calif., and critically injured her husband.

SESSIONS OF TRAFFIC COURT BIGGER AS SQUAD CRACKS DOWN

With only one more week to go before their permanent appointments will be up for consideration, members of the Mansfield traffic squad have cracked down on speeding motorists—and hard.

While an occasional speeder has been nipped here and there, up until the present members of the squad have contented themselves in warning drivers that stricter enforcement was on the way.

Within the past week, however, more than ten motorists have been hauled in on charges of speeding, careless driving, and other violations.

Before, on Wednesday afternoons, when most of the speeders are due to be arraigned in a special traffic session before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, only one or two drivers have appeared. Last Wednesday, however, five drivers paid fines for speeding.

Yesterday alone, the squad brought in three drivers charged with traffic violations. T. F. Urban, Crestline, R. D. 1, paid $10 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of speeding on Park avenue west.

Benjamin Klayman, Columbus, also paid a $10 fine after he had been charged with driving more than 60 miles an hour on Lexington avenue and illegally crossing a yellow line. Police also arrested David A. Bentono of Stamford, Conn., on charges of operating a motor vehicle with insufficient brakes. He was arrested on North Main street. His case was continued until Monday.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals said that the squad was tightening up on enforcement especially since radios have been installed on the motorcycles enabling them to operate on "tips" from headquarters.

The five new traffic squad members went to work on Aug. 1. They have nearly completed their temporary appointment period and will be up for regular appointment a week from tomorrow.

Serving on the squad are Robert Garver, Robert Robnolte, Arthur Conrady, Roeliff Hout and Richard Hecht. Patrolman Clare Kyler, veteran member of the regular police force, has also been detailed to traffic work.

HE'S CONVINCED

Judge Overrules Bioff, Browne Dismissal Motions.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Having failed to convince Federal Judge John C. Knox that William Bioff and George E. Browne should be absolved of a $550,000 extortion charge, defense attorneys began trying to convince the jury today.

Bioff, west coast representative of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage employes (AFL), was to be the first defense witness.

Bioff and Browne, president of the IATSE, were charged with shaking down four motion picture companies for $550,000, threatening to call ruinous strikes unless they paid.

Judge Knox yesterday denied motions for directed verdicts, dismissal of the charge, quashing of the indictments and striking of the testimony.

FIREMAN KILLED

Dies In Chilean Blaze Which Started In German Factory.

CONCEPCION, Chile—(U.P.)—A fire which swept the center of Concepcion last night and killed a fireman caused damage estimated today at 7,000,000 pesos (nominally $1,435,000).

It started late last night from an undetermined source in Casa Gleisner, in which was located a big German machinery firm, and swept by a strong wind quickly roared through the block and spread to the main street.

FINISH BEHIND

Corn Huskers From Nearby Counties Fail To Place.

While Wallace Passett of Upper Sandusky was winning the Ohio shock corn husking title yesterday on the Harry Booher farm near Urbana, the three entries from northcentral Ohio counties finished far down the list.

Passett husked 1,573 pounds of corn in 80 minutes in a muddy field. He received a silver trophy and other awards. There is no national contest for shock corn huskers for him to enter.

Rueben Pritchard of Crawford county finished tenth in the competition, shucking 1,301 pounds of corn. Further down the list were Billy Smith of Morrow county with 1,168 pounds and Walter Lemmel of Ashland county with 1,127 pounds.

A crowd of 20,000 was predicted today for the state standing corn husking contest on the same farm. The winner will represent Ohio in the national contest Nov. 3 in LaSalle county, Illinois.

FRONTIER U. + + + + + +

By Orin Arnold

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER IV

When they started up the steep slope toward Ho-Ho-Kam ridge, which was a natural lookout point over Frontier university, Polly McMurray and her two men companions made an odd little parade.

She had left her horse Pintado hitched below. She climbed in cowboy boots, spurs slinking. Behind her, Ken Palmer labored with a two-gallon bucket of white paint. And third came Pedro, the Mexican gardener, comic looking with a rake and two brooms.

"You have to—stretch—for it!" Polly breathed, happily, to the two men. She was lifting herself by sheer strength over the boulders. It was a zestful climb.

"I shall die quite dead," Ken Palmer avowed. "This is not what I came to college to do!"

"Oh, you don't like mountain climbing? You're a softie?"

"No. I—" But he had suddenly looked up at her, and saw the way she dimpled. He had to grin back. "Yes. Yes, Miss McMurray. You distract one! I am supposed to be a city chap. A cowgirl has led me astray!"

"Feel no alarm. Pedro will chaperone, and protect you!"

"Of course. I meant—" The young man swallowed. Polly had spoken that last ever-so-seriously, haughtily. "Please forgive me! I was trying feebly to—to tease—and I am not good at social—"

Polly laughed gaily, then sat down to rest with them from the climb. They were half way or so. "All you need is a sister or two, Mr. Man; My brother Ward would have known better. He leads a dog's life. But you're all right, Ken, really. I may call you Ken, mayn't I?"

He warmed to her, formality gone again. "Of course! If I may call you—call you—"

"Polly, please. It's Pauline, really. But Polly is best. And listen Ken—nobody ever stands on formality in Arizona. It isn't like Boston out here, or New York. We give and take easily, with everybody on his own."

"I think I'm going to like that!"

* * *

She herded them up another 600-odd feet, where they came onto the flat top of the ridge. Only a few knee-high cacti and palo verde growths broke the plane of red rock.

"It's like cement!" Ken said. "Almost a dance floor."

"We have school doings up here sometimes," she nodded. "Right now we are going to paint. Look—start here, Pedro, and rake off all the pebbles and trash. You follow with a broom, Ken. I'll outline a big arrow, then you can use the brooms to help me fill it in."

Within an hour they had a gigantic white arrow there. It was nearly 100 feet long, pointed north. The three stood up finally, and Polly lifted an arm to point away off.

"Look closely, Ken. See the darker spot in Paradise Valley? That's home. My dad's Paradise ranch. It's 15 miles. Now look there to the left, the west. See the larger white or yellowish area? That's the Flats. See it?"

"The Flats?" He was more conscious of her nearness than of the landscape. She had one hand on his shoulder, and the clean grace of her pointing arm was beautiful. Too, he caught from her a delicious, delicate perfume. He glanced quickly at her face. Her cheeks were wind-tinted. Lips were exceptionally—but naturally—dark. Ken Palmer swallowed. His eyes lifted to the ebony ringlets of Polly's hair.

"There — you aren't looking, Ken!" She pretended to chide him.

"Unh. I see."

"That's where she can land. Her telegram said she expects a college landing field, Ken, and she shall have it!"

Polly posed with hands on hips, looking pert and saucy, chin up.

"Lordy!" Ken Palmer breathed. His admiration was open now but Polly chose again to ignore it. She could at least keep an impersonal front, she told herself, even though handsome Ken Palmer set her heart a pounding. But it wasn't easy!"

"The arrow is right near the big white F—see? She'll know what to do when she sees it. Pedro, you drag the things back down, there's a dear, and we'll hasten on ahead."

"Where to, Polly?" Ken demanded, brightly. Her enthusiasm was contagious.

"We'll go get my horse—no; have you a car?"

"Um. Of a sort. It runs."

"We'll run it. We better hurry. I think it's going to rain. It often does in September. Or at least dry rain."

"Dry rain?" He looked his surprise.

"Sand storm, you dude! Come on!"

* * *

They climbed the 1,200-odd feet down to the campus again in half the time required to go up. Polly complimented Ken for his adroitness.

"I keep in shape," he admitted. "Tennis. Swimming. Boxing some."

"Maybe this—this Boone person—will be athletic. I'll gamble on it."

"Joy Boone. Joy Kathryn Boone, of New York and Bar Harbor and Miami and—" Ken was saying it reverently, "—and everywhere. I've seen her pictures a thousand times. Last week in the news reels she—"

"I know. The 1941 glamorette, or whatever. Modeling for this and that. Stunting. Setting a pace. It's all right, though, we'd all do it if we could. I say it's a break for Frontier that she's coming."

"It will advertise the school."

"It needs that. Maybe someone will h'ist the endowment fund then."

When they had driven out to the Flats, Ward McMurray was already there. Moreover, he had had the forethought to bring a canteen of water and some things to eat. Ken Palmer liked him. Ward was quiet mannered, but his handclasp was strong, and he looked straight into Ken's eyes.

"Do you go to college, too, Ward?" Ken asked. "And where?"

"I finished at the state U. in Tucson. Enough for me, I figured. I want to do ranching. Dad's letting me take over by degrees."

"Good! Then you, uh, can bulldog a steer, eh?"

Ward grinned. "If I have to. I don't go in for rodeo sports much, though. I work. Or squire Polly around or run errands for her. She bosses me around."

"Mmmm!" Ken Palmer sounded off as if to say that should be a delightful situation. He stared at Polly almost too much.

Because Polly had ordered them by phone, Ward had four bed sheets in his car. The young people took these sheets now and tied them about half a mile apart, roughly marking off the flattest part of the Flats. Hard desert sand here would be an ideal landing spot, Ward explained.

"Heck of it is, it's likely to rain," he asserted. "We're due for some rain. That cloud's black. And if that isn't a sand cone under it—!"

For half an hour they studied the weather; and while no rain fell, the sand did begin to blow.

* * *

Presently it was a colossal brown tapestry across the landscape between them and Squaw Peak, 15 miles toward Phoenix. The peak was still visible, but barely so. Then the sky began spitting. Whack! Whack-whack. Water drops as big as thimbles burst on them. More came. Literal mud fell in specks from the sand-ridden sky.

"E-E-YEOW!" Ward finally shrieked. "She's a coming! Let's head for the car!"

For one hour, two hours, almost three, the youths sat in Ward's sedan and watched the majesty and fury of a desert storm. They talked of everything imaginable. They sang songs. They had, in fact, a thoroughly pleasant time, until Polly suddenly remembered to look at her wrist watch.

"Ho-lee hades!" she breathed. "It's almost 5 o'clock! Her telegram said she was due at 4, didn't it Ken!"

That was true. They scanned the sky with new interest. Ward drove them then around the Flats, and finally they got out to walk, ignoring the rain. Most of it was wind now, again.

"You'll catch cold," Ken told Polly. "I should have my coat for you."

"No," she smiled her thanks. "I never have."

After half an hour more they were all but frantic.

* * *

The storm, instead of floating off, seemed to have stuck here in southern Arizona. Clouds hung lower and blacker than ever before. The three youths dared not mention the danger they knew any airplane faced, but all felt an extra concern for an eastern girl supposedly flying to this rugged area alone. They stood together, almost in silence, waiting and hoping.

The tension broke when Ward's alert eyes saw something.

"Parachute!" he suddenly yelled. "Look!"

As if by magic a white 'chute had indeed materialized from one of the cloud formations. Moreover, it was drifting in general toward the three young people here on the ground. They started running.

"If she hits on a cactus!" Ward cried. "Or even a mesquite tree!"

The 'chute struck earth a mile away. Polly saw it billowing there. Ken and Ward quite outran her, then. Minutes, long tantalizing minutes, passed before she had threaded through the cactus and other desert growths of Paradise Valley and saw the boys coming toward her with a dripping, gray-haired woman. Polly saw at once she was almost hysterical.

"Where is Joy!" the woman kept crying. "I am Bettina Carlson. Joy made me jump but she was to follow. She promised. She had no fuel left. But I—I remember she usually flew alone. So now I don't think she had—had but the one parachute!"

Joy Boone had a matter of five seconds in which to make up her mind. Many a person would have frozen there in sheer terror. Joy, always quick and impulsive, moved the proper controls.

Her plane motor fairly deafened her when she nosed as straight up as she dared. "Zoo-o-ooOOMM" it sounded, there in the box canyon. She saw the walls whizz by her, walls of rock.

She held her breath. Yonder was the end of the canyon hurtling at her now. It might be 1,000 or 10,000 feet high; clouds obscured the crest of it. There wasn't room to turn and go back out of the canyon. She'd have to gamble everything on this desperate climb. Even if she made it there would hardly be enough fuel left to carry her two minutes more.

The phenomenon that saved her, she later realized, was the windstorm itself.

Wind had come driving behind her up that canyon. It, too, had to escape, and so it did what she did—zoomed upward.

"I'll make it! I'll make it!" she verily screamed her elation there in the plane cabin, quite forgetting that Bettina Carlson had already bailed out.

At the end of the canyon the wind formed a terrific draft straight up. The force of it, plus her own motor drive, grabbed Joy's ship and literally threw it clear of the mountain.

"Oh!" Joy shrieked. "O-oo-oh!" It was a long, tremulous cry of exaltation, a thanks prayer in reality. She was in the clouds again and the same old problem of escaping them loomed ahead, but at least she was not smashed to bits in some obscure canyon. For a sickening moment she had envisioned her plane a mass of wreckage back there, with her own mangled body somewhere underneath it. Now, though, her blue eyes were wide, her hair waving like a golden halo come alive.

She was still climbing rapidly. Her instruments told her just what angle upward her ship would stand. She staked everything on this now—up, up, up! Maybe—maybe—the clouds would open and reveal an emergency spot to land. She had tried to circle to stay somewhere near Phoenix, if that white F and arrow were Phoenix. F, Phoenix; no that wouldn't be. F would be some other town, or—yes, why not? F for Frontier! Frontier university, where she was going. She and Bettina had wired for a servant to meet them at the college landing field. And, now, she remembered a picture in the college catalogue showing "F Mountain," a great rock mass near the campus on which students had painted their monogram.

Her thoughts gave her fresh hope. It was hard any time for Joy Boone to stay frightened long. She had high spirits always, and high self-confidence. She knew there was no second parachute—Bettina of course hadn't thought of that or she would never have jumped—but now she knew something would happen, something to save her. It always had!

For a long two or three minutes, though, it appeared that this instance might be the exception. The old Boone luck seemed about to fail. The motor began its expected sputtering. A few fires, then a miss, a few more explosions, a spt-spt-spt, a longer miss, a few more "takes" then longer silence.

"The gas is all gone!" Joy whispered to herself. "Clouds, mountains, rocks, or whatever, I'm going back down. I'm going to strike land soon—somewhere!"

Ken Palmer had said that he would stay at the Flats, their hastily improvised airport, while Ward and Polly McMurray took Miss Carlson in. Poor Miss Carlson was all but insane. Polly had a task calming her.

"We'll leave her with the dormitory matron at school, or at the hospital maybe," Polly said as they rode away. "Then we'll rush on to the municipal airport and order planes to search for Miss Boone, Ken. Meantime, let's hope she checks in unharmed."

"Right. I'll stick here as long as there's a chance of her landing."

"We'll come back here as soon as we can."

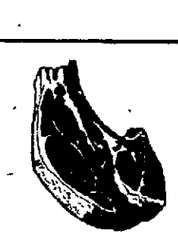
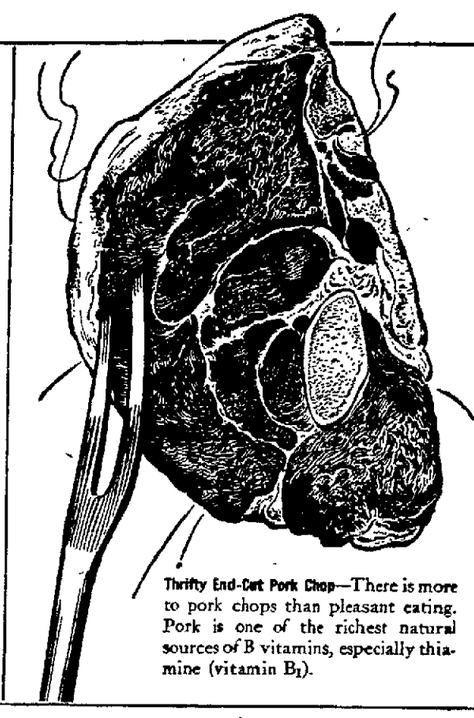
LEARN THE THRIFTIER CUTS OF MEAT

3 Chops you should know



Thrifty Shoulder Lamb Chop

Thrifty Shoulder Veal Chop



Chops are always a convenient meat to serve, because you can "count noses" and order just the number needed.

The thrifty thing to do is to ask for such cuts as the shoulder chops of veal or lamb, or end-cut pork chops from the rib or loin end. Lamb chops may be broiled. Veal and pork chops are best when braised.

Ideas for pork chops: Pork chops are juicier and more attractive when slowly cooked until thoroughly done. Brown on both sides, cover and cook slowly for about 45 minutes. They may be finished in the oven, surrounded with sweet potatoes or apple halves or topped with a savory dressing.

Thrifty End-Cut Pork Chop—There is more to pork chops than pleasant eating. Pork is one of the richest natural sources of B vitamins, especially thiamine (vitamin B_1).

All meat brings you B vitamins, so essential to well-being

This applies to even the thriftiest cuts which also contain important minerals (iron, copper, phosphorus), and are rich in complete, high quality proteins. Plus, of course, that good meat flavor.

Mansfield Has Slight Weight Advantage for Big Game

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Rev. Grover Swoyer, pastor of First Lutheran church, is prepared to admit that he was a bit of an athlete in his day at Wittenberg college, but you could have knocked him off his chair with a medicine ball when he was introduced to a Warren audience not long ago as:

"One of the greatest athletes in Wittenberg's history, a 16-letter man, one of Wittenberg's all-time basketball stars, and captain of every varsity team in his senior year."

"I did win 12 letters in three years of varsity play in football, basketball and baseball, and I won one freshman letter," he corrects the Warren master of ceremonies.

"And I was captain of the basketball team in my senior year.

"But I wasn't Superman!"

It seems the parson ran the score on
The guy who made that speech at Warren.

* * *

Waiting since last spring for his second chance to toss leather as a professional mittman, Paul Carbetta, Mansfield's flyweight champion of the Cleveland Golden Gloves, has taken to training another glove slinger with the hope of taking him to the Golden Gloves.

"I've started my stable with Kenny Rudolph, 147-pound brother of the tennis player, Gene Rudolph," says Paul. "Now I'll find out how much better it is to be a manager than a catcher."

Yeah? Paul doesn't wear any marks from catching. And he'd probably teach his boys to take care of themselves too.

* * *

"No kiddin' though," Carbetta continues, "this Rudolph really looks good, and he seems to like it. You'll be hearing from him this winter.

"And always remember, I didn't start my stable in a stable. I started it in Rudolph's garage. That's where we've been working out."

* * *

I wasn't going to say anything about the Mansfield-Massillon game in today's column. This strip has been so full of that game all week.

But it may be a good time to repeat a plea made here before the season opened.

Remember, the world won't stand or fall on the outcome of a football game. Regardless of the fact that tonight's game may go a long way toward deciding the state championship, it's still just a game of football, played by high school boys.

So, win, lose, or draw tonight, give those Mansfield Tygers just as big a cheer tomorrow as you did today.

Rams Take St. Mary's Game, 12-0

Strike Twice To Beat Marion Football Team.

By BUD SPRUNGER
News-Journal Sports Writer.

MADISON struck twice last night at Marion to trip St. Mary's high 12-0 although St. Mary pushed over 10 first downs to the Rams' five.

The first score came in the first period after Ken Windsor had intercepted a St. Mary pass on his own 20. After that Harold Hammer quick kicked over the safety's head to the St. Mary 15.

* * *

St. Mary kicked back to their own 30 and from there Hammer made a first on the 12 and two plays later passed to Windsor for the first touchdown.

* * *

Dave Rochford took the Ram kickoff on his own 11 and galloped through the whole Ram team to the Madison 20 where Windsor snagged him from behind as he broke into the clear.

George Shoup and Robert McGinnis drove to a first down on the Ram nine and there the Madison team held as the quarter ended.

From there Hammer filled the air with passes and the Rams moved upfield to the 50 where McGinnis intercepted. Two plays later Windsor again intercepted and the quarter resolved into a passing duel with no score.

* * *

The third quarter was a punting duel until its closing moments when Bob Anthony was put into the Madison backfield and two plays later galloped off his own right tackle for 55 yards and Madison's second scored.

* * *

From there St. Mary tried stright power, passes and reverses all with the same result—Madison held and no real scoring threat was made.

During the game the Rams brought out their passing attack for the first time this year, completing seven out of nine.

Defensively Madison's pass handling was even better. Windsor snagged four St. Mary passes during the game and Delbert Poston grabbed one. St. Mary could complete nothing but harmless flat passes.

Reynold Bell backing up the line sparked the Ram defensive work last night.

Lineups:

Madison	Pos.	St. Mary
P. Wynn	L.E.	Daum
Stone	L.T.	Kelly
Batson	L.G.	Phillips
Spriesterbaugh	C.	Robbins

Madison substitutions: Campbel, R. Fletcher, Stone, Herr, Poston, Roberts, Anthony, Morrison, Rinehart, Keller Bishop; St. Mary: McKinney, Wilmes, Haver, Leser, Tobin.

Scoring summary: Madison—Hammer to Windsor (pass), Anthony.

Fort Wayne Team Booked

Columbus Cancelled By Mansfield Pro Club.

Fred Rizzo, business manager of the Mansfield City News professional football team, made a hurried trip to Columbus yesterday, discovered the team booked in here Sunday to meet the Mansfield club wasn't as tough as had been represented, and immediately cancelled the contest.

* * *

But there'll be a game, Rizzo happily announced this morning. The St. Joe Athletic club of Ft. Wayne, Ind., which was scheduled to play the City News here three weeks ago, and made the trip to Mansfield only to be rained out, was booked on short notice and will provide the opposition for the pros' first Sunday tilt at Madison high field at 2:30 p. m.

* * *

The Ft. Wayne team, composed entirely of former Indiana high school and college players, and with most of the squad having at least two years of professional playing experience, promises to give Mansfield a real battle in the daylight encounter.

BROOKS PLOT REVENGE ON MANHATTAN ISLAND

NEW YORK—(INS)—Brooklyn's loyal citizenry, not forgetting the world series humiliation from New York's Yankees, today plotted some small measure of revenge against the Island of Manhattan come Sunday when the football Dodgers tackle the Giants in a National professional gridiron game.

A Brooklyn triumph over New York on the gridiron! "Ah, happy thought," commented Sidney Ascher, president of the society for the prevention of disparaging remarks about Brooklyn.

CLEVELAND RAMS SLATE 'JOHN DRAKE' GRID DAY

CLEVELAND — (AP) — John Drake, the first of the Cleveland Rams, will be honored in a "John Drake day" when the Rams play the Detroit Lions at the stadium on Nov. 2.

The big fullback was the Cleveland club's first National league player, having been selected in the league draft early in 1937, when the team was just being organized. Formerly a Purdue star, he has played five seasons with the local club, and last season won all-league fullback honors.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(INS)—The sports world today mourned Frank Taberski, 52, who during his brilliant career captured the world's pocket billiards championship seven times.

Taberski, a native of Amsterdam, N. Y., died yesterday after a long illness. Known as a billiard strategist, Taberski engaged in a heated billard rivalry with Ralph Greenleaf in many outstanding tournaments.

Wire Service Gives Tigers Slight Edge Over Mansfield

(By International News Service)

OHIO high school's "battle of the century" involving the undefeated elevens of Massillon and Mansfield, will be played before a capacity crowd of 22,000 at Massillon tonight.

Mansfield has gone completely wild over the prospects of its scholastic heroes who roared their way to a 41-0 victory over Springfield last week and indications were that 5,000 fans from the Richland county metropolis, or roughly one fifth of the city's population would be included in the throng on deck at the opening kick-off.

So heavy was the scheduled migration to Massillon that the state highway department ordered all detours eliminated on U. S. Route 30, main highway between the two cities. In addition to hundreds driving to the game, a special train carrying at least 1,000 more fans, was scheduled.

Massillon, winner of 38 consecutive games will be shooting at an undisputed national high school record in the game. By an odd quirk of fate, Mansfield shares the record and will naturally be battling to keep their share of it.

In most informed circles, Massillon is rated as a slight favorite but all critics are agreed Mansfield has at least a 40-60 chance. Both teams were in fine physical condition.

* * *

Six teams throughout the state, meanwhile, rolled to their sixth consecutive victories without a setback Thursday night, headed by the powerful O.S.S.O. team of Xenia which rolled to an imposing 77-0 victory over a hapless Lebanon team.

Bexley, paced again by its brilliant halfback John Sophos easily defeated Westerville to keep its place atop the Central Buckeye league with Grandview which trounched Delaware in another league game, 28 to 2.

Undefeated Mifflin of the Franklin county league overwhelmed Grove City, 33 to 0, and in the northern part of the state, Upper Sandusky barged over Calvert, 38 to 6.

Wyoming of the Cincinnati district carried too many guns for Dayton Oakwood, winning 30 to 0, and Olmstead Falls continued undefeated and united after a close call at North Royalton, winning 20 to 14.

Other undefeated teams scheduled to put their records on the line over the week-end included Dennison (with Uhrichsville) Cleveland Collinwood (with Glenville); Martins Ferry (at Bellaire); Portsmouth East (with Pedro); Canton Lehman (with Canton Timken); Warren Harding (with Erie, Pa., Academy); Cleveland St. Ignatius (with Holy Name) and Steubenville Central Catholic (with Mooseheart.)

2 NETWORKS BROADCAST LITTLE BROWN JUG GAME

There won't be a three-network broadcast of the Michigan-Minnesota football game after all on Saturday. MBS took a look at the other chain's schedules and decided that such triplication—the word its announcement used—was unnecessary and will instead describe Texas vs. Rice at Austin, Texas, starting at 3:15.

This change leaves CBS and NBC-Blue doing the Michigan-Minnesota game at 1:45, with NBC-Red describing Ohio State vs. Northwestern, also at 1:45.

RESERVE RECOVERS

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The return of injured players increased the Western Reserve football squad to 24 players for Saturday's game here against Kent State. The squad has had only 16 men since early in the season.

Tygers Hold Edge of Three Pounds Per Man

Coach Snyder's Gridders Also Have Margin In Experience

MANSFIELD HIGH TYGERS will have a weight advantage of slightly more than three pounds per man over Massillon Washington's Tigers when these undefeated teams clash tonight at Massillon in the game that may decide the high school football championship of Ohio.

Mansfield will also have an advantage in experience. Ten of the 11 probable starters for the Tygers are seniors. Seven of the probable starting Tigers are seniors.

Ordinarily Mansfield would start an entire senior eleven. Probable substitution of John Butler for the injured Bill Pecht at left tackle would admit one junior to the opening lineup. Pecht, however, is likely to play and may even be in the starting team. He suffered an ankle injury in Mansfield's 41 to 0 victory over Springfield last Friday night.

Massillon also will have some changes from its usual lineup, with two seniors replacing two other seniors because of injuries.

George Dolmos will be in at left tackle in place of two players listed for the post ahead of him. Karl Paulik, regular tackle, came up with a foot injury in Monday's practice, and probably will get into the game. Last week Sophomore Dave Edwards started at that position, but Dolmos is getting the nod tonight because of his weight advantage. Dolmos weighs 190 and Edwards only 135, a difference of 55 pounds.

Kevie Bray, who replaced Herman Robinson, regular left end, in the Mansfield game last year, and who was returned to that position when Robinson was injured this fall in the first day of practice, has been out of action with injuries since the Marblehead game. Don Armour has been playing good ball at left end in recent games, and probably will start, but it is believed Bray will see some action.

Few of the Massillon starters tonight got into much of last year's Mansfield battle. Fred (Pokey) Blunt, speedy back, is the only regular left from last year's team, and Coach Paul Brown didn't make many substitutions in the 1940 tilt until the last five minutes.

Mansfield gave Massillon a real battle last fall, much better than the 38-0 score indicated. After getting away to a 6-0 score at the half, a large part of Massillon's second half 32-points was the result of the standout play of the great Horace Gillom, giant colored star end, who is now the outstanding star of Ohio State's freshman team.

Most of the Mansfield players went all the way through the 1940 game. Playing Massillon will be nothing new to them. They'll be out for revenge for the 38 to 0 defeat last year and the 72-0 massacre of the year before.

* * *

Both Mansfield and Massillon have depended almost entirely on straight power to pile up their convincing string of five victories each this fall. It's no secret that the Tygers have been holding back some of their trickiest plays, and it can be assumed that the same is true at Massillon. Both teams are expected to shoot the works tonight.

* * *

Last reserved seat for the game was sold in Massillon Wednesday at 6 p. m., but school officials announced between 5,000 and 6,000 general admission tickets at 55 cents would be placed on sale at the gate tonight.

Mt. Union Agrees To Use No Frosh

ALLIANCE—(AP)—Mt. Union college stuck with the Ohio conference today in its decision not to let down the bars against member schools playing freshmen on their varsity football teams.

Athletic Director Robert D. Wright said Mt. Union's athletic board decided last night to play out its remaining schedule of four games although it has a squad of only 20 men including 12 sophomores.

Ohio conference representatives voted against using freshmen at a meeting in Mansfield Wednesday night. Several smaller colleges had favored using that means of enlarging their squads which have been decimated by selective service and national defense jobs.

Mt. Union meets Wittenberg, Wooster, Ohio Northern and Muskingum yet this season.

Wright said that Mt. Union was not an instigator of the freshman playing proposal.

Hecklinger Moved to Buck Full

Takes Injured Graf's Spot Against Wildcats.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A 19-year-old sophomore with just three minutes of playing experience in big time football shouldered the responsibility today of leading Ohio State's attack against Northwestern's favored Wildcats Saturday.

* * *

The youngster is 185-pound Harold (Bob) Hecklinger, former star of the Toledo Waite high school team, and he'll appear in the lineup on the Buckeye gridiron for the first time this week as Coach Paul Brown and his boys seek their fourth straight win.

* * *

Hecklinger was hurled into the fullback breach as Jack Graf, the plunging-passing-kicking star, was declared definitely out of action due to a knee injury suffered against Purdue last week. The Toledo lad also is a triple-threat star, and he'll do the punting and some of the passing against the Wildcats, who are snarling after being upset 14-7 by Michigan a week ago.

In the Missouri and Purdue games, both played here, Hecklinger sat on the bench the entire time. He got into the 33-0 rout of Southern California for three minutes.

* * *

"It's a tough spot to toss a youngster into," Brown said, "but we feel that Hecklinger has the stuff. He's a good kicker and passer, and he can carry that ball. We'll miss Graf—maybe too much."

Dick Burgett, sophomore from Columbus North, who has been the No. 2 fullback and Graf's replacement, also is on the shelf, necessitating Hecklinger's hoist from the third to the first team.

The Bucks, outside of the fullback job, will start the same team that beat Purdue 16-14. Charley Anderson and Bob Shaw will be at the ends, Jim Daniell and Capt. Stephenson at the tackles, Lin Houston and Fritz Howard at guards, Jack Rosen at center, Tom Kinkade and Dick Fisher at the halves, and Hallabrin at quarter.

The Wildcats are due in Columbus early this afternoon, with a workout on the stadium turf scheduled for about 4 p. m. They'll stay at a downtown hotel tonight while the Bucks retire to a country club.

Teams Called Back on Field

Official Admits Error as New London Wins.

NEW LONDON — The players were in their dressing rooms, and everyone thought the football game was over with New London winning over Loudonville 7-0, everyone but Coach Leo Grimes of Loudonville who insisted the Red Birds still had a play coming.

* * *

Loudonville had had the ball on the New London four yard line and had been penalized five yards on the final play. Instead of stepping off the penalty, the referee picked up the ball and walked off the field. Grimes insisted he had another play coming, the official finally admitted his error, and the teams returned to the field for a pass which was knocked down.

And New London was still winner, 7 to 0.

Loudonville knocked at the door several times during the game but was unable to reach pay dirt. The Red Birds in the first quarter made two first downs and fumbled with the Wildcats recovering on their 39, again they started then after a loss of 11 yards made a poor punt and the Wildcats made first down on a pass Walters to Saunders as the second quarter started on Loudonville's 38. Walters heaved a 28-yard pass to Lehnert who went the remaining 10 for the score. Saunders place kick was good.

The third and fourth quarters put the Wildcats on the defensive most of the time with Loudonville getting to the 11 when Thomas intercepted a pass and at the start of the fourth quarter Loudonville was on the Wildcats' 5. They were held for three plays and tried a pass which Walters intercepted.

Two forward-laterals on fourth down hurt Loudonville's bid for score and in the closing minutes of play Loudonville was again on the Wildcats' four and with time for one play drew a five yard penalty for backfield in motion and lost the touchdown. They were given one more play and a pass which was knocked down and the final score was 7 to 0 in favor of the Wildcats.

Galion Pros Meet Toledo

Report Game Scheduled With Mansfield Nov. 9.

GALION—The Galion Jay-Cees football team, undefeated in three starts this season, takes on the highly regarded Toledo Merchants at Heise Park field, here, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The Jay-Cees, coached by Bob Corry of Galion, and Harold Nussbaum, former Bucyrus coach, have developed into a smooth working, powerful team. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the team in an effort to revive interest in sports in Galion. Baseball during the past summer also received a "shot in the arm" through the efforts of the J. C. C.

The Jay-Cees grid squad is made up of boys from Galion, Bucyrus, Crestline and Mansfield Madison. They have been working together for about five weeks and in that short time have come a long way toward top rank in semi-pro circles.

Definitely scheduled games in addition to Sunday's game with Toledo, include Columbus Avondales, Wednesday night, Oct. 29; Ft. Wayne St. Joe Athletic Saints, Sunday, Nov. 2; and Mansfield City News, Nov. 9.

The boys have been putting out some real football. Bucyrus, Crestline and Mansfield fans are invited to see their favorites cavort at Galion—there's Hermon, from Mansfield Madison, a shifty, fast runner; Phil Ganni, one of Crestline's outstanding athletes, Rocky Rockwell from Bucyrus, along with Battin, Greenich and Barlow. Jack Priest is Madison's other stand-out with the team. The Corbins, Dave and Bill, and Earl Fletcher, all hard-hitting boys have played a lot of football for Crestline high school in their time

ABE SIMON GOES UNDER KNIFE FOR APPENDICITIS

NEW YORK—(AP)—Abe Simon, heavyweight boxer, is in Memorial hospital for an appendicitis operation. Manager Jimmy Johnston said Simon had felt pains before his losing fight with Lem Franklin in Cleveland Monday night and that the diagnosis of appendicitis was made late yesterday. Franklin suffered a splintered thumb in the Simon match and called off his scheduled bout with Harry Cooper in St. Louis next Tuesday.

Jug Classic In Top Spot

Michigan and Minnesota Hold Yearly Battle.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. —(INS)— Take two undefeated football teams for impact, take the Little Brown Jug for symbolism, the bold colors painted by mid-autumn for the background and you have the picture in this typical American college town today.

The impact, the whole driving force of it, will be provided come 2 p. m. tomorrow when the University of Michigan and the University of Minnesota line up in perhaps the greatest sporting event in 1941.

* * *

The Little Brown Jug, that inanimate object which goes to the winner of this yearly pigskin clash, provides all the symbolism one can want. And as on Michigan fan expressed it quite aptly, that Little Brown Jug has been gathering moss a long, long time in the Minnesota trophy case.

For it has been seven years since one fall afternoon that Michigan eked out a 3 to 0 victory over the towering men from the far north country. Even Tom Harmon, the greatest football player since Illinois' Red Grange, could never in his three-year Michigan career lead the Wolverines to triumph over Bernie Bierman's men.

For the color, you can take the more than 85,000 persons who will gather in Michigan's bowl for the clash which has this nation's football minded souls turning mental handsprings trying to figure out the ultimate result.

CITY LICENSES CYCLISTS

BIG RAPIDS, Mich.—(U.P.)—An ordinance requiring the licensing of all bicycles in this college town is the city commission's answer to a growing problem of cycle traffic control. Under the regulations of the statute, cyclists will be permitted to ride on sidewalks but pedestrians are to have the right of way under all circumstances.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM DU PONT

IN THE INTEREST OF NATIONAL DEFENSE, conserve anti-freeze so there will be enough to go around . . . Don't buy or use more than you need . . . Before you put in anti-freeze, have your car radiator cleaned to remove the rust, scale and dirt that cause overheating . . . Have your dealer tighten up all hose connections, cylinder bolts, and water pump packing. This will prevent leakage of anti-freeze . . . Also see that the fan and belt are working properly for full cooling efficiency . . . Then put in a dependable anti-freeze, following the directions on the can.

In Regard to Tax On Automobiles!

NEW CARS

New Tax Amounts To Less Than $30 On a $1000 Car

A great number of people think that the new Federal Excise tax on new cars runs anywhere from 7% to 10% additional or from $100 to $200 on a new car. This is certainly not the case. The only additional tax that you pay on a new car this year is 3½% Federal Excise tax, which is included in the list price of the car, amounting to less than $30 a $1,000 automobile.

USED CARS

No Federal Tax On Used Cars

Many folks are under the impression that the Federal tax on automobiles includes used cars. This is not the case. Used car purchases are free of this Federal Excise tax. With new car production curtailed, good used cars are moving quickly. Buy now! . . . Take full advantage of this saving!

Down Payments

Only one third of the total cost is required as a down payment on every automobile sold. . . . However . . . your present car will probably suffice as the down payment on a much better automobile.

Time Payments

The unpaid balance can still be carried for as long as 18 months on both new and used cars, which in most cases has been the maximum length of time allowed for time payments for a number of years.

ILLITERACY RISES

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(U.P.)—A steady influx of people from other states has resulted in increases in California's illiterate adult population. George C. Mann, chief of the state division of adult education, reports that California's adult illiterate population is 125,000, of which only 30,000 are studying to overcome their handicaps.

About 8,538,000 men lost their lives in the World war.

STOCK MARKET SHOWS SLIGHT UPWARD TREND

Report Indicates Moderate Let-Down In Upswing of Trade, Industry.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Moderate forward leanings continued in today's stock market.

Favored were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, American Telephone, Du Pont, Westinghouse and U. S. Gypsum.

One block of 14,300 shares of Commonwealth & Southern changed hands at ¼, off 1-16 at its recent low for the year.

Optimistic market forces were confronted with further indications of a moderate let-down in the lengthy upswing of trade and industry.

Dun & Bradstreet said that uneveness in merchandising activities became more pronounced this week and that "a decline in anticipatory purchasing is evident all along the line."

The agency pointed out, however, that retail sales for the country as a whole, while under recent peaks, for the second week in a row showed increases over a year ago of 12 to 16 per cent.

Also on the program was a talk by George B. Crane, assistant director of extension work at Ohio State university.

CALLS FOR END OF SEWER TAX

Bushnell Terms It 'Obnoxious'; Ward Says City Without Guidance From Mayor.

upon the amount of water used by property-owners and is collected along with the water bill.

The Democratic candidate said that the support of the sewage department should be placed on a more permanent basis and should be handled through the tax duplicate as it was prior to 1937.

Both Ward and Bushnell analyzed Mayor Locke's recital of accomplishments at Tuesday night's Republican meeting. "Mayor Locke says that he has no intention of taking the entire credit for these accomplishments," said Ward, "a truer statement of fact would be that he had no intention of taking any credit for them."

The Democratic speakers pointed out that city council makes provisions for most of the matters which the mayor claimed credit for and did them "as a routine matter."

Locke's claims of improvement in the water, sewage and street departments were dismissed by speakers as "routine business handled almost entirely by council." Ward also charged that the improvement in the traffic department had been unjustly claimed by the mayor as an accomplishment when it was actually carried out by council.

"A mayor can do little or a great deal," said Ward. "He can ascertain conditions in all city departments and make suggestions to council for improvements. Mayor Locke, however, has maintained a hands off policy and has let the city operate as best as it can."

The solicitor said that we had discarded the "laissez faire" administration nationally when Harding, Coolidge and Hoover were replaced. "Now is the time to get rid of it locally," said Ward.

Bushnell said that if he was elected he would investigate the sewer charge problem and that if the emergency is passed would see that the tax "is stricken from the ordinances of the city."

Bushnell disagreed with Mayor Locke's assertion that the city has a plentiful water supply and said that the mayor's policy was in controlling the sewage system was not according to the "plan but the order" of the state health department.

"When the state health department gives an order," said Bushnell, "it sees to it that the order is carried out. It is above any one administration's plans."

The Democratic candidate scoffed at Mayor Locke's claim of reduction of debt in the water department.

"Our water department is owned by the city," he said, "and the charges for water are intended to cover costs of the operation and provide a fund for extension of lines and payment of bonds. No administration can lay claim to any payment of bonds, for our waterworks pays its own way and any surplus can not be used by other city departments."

Bushnell also pointed out that the repavement of Fourth street was done as a WPA project with state aid and said the city aided in only a "minor way." It is absolutely absurd for the administration to claim credit for it."

Attorney W. H. McClellan presided at the meeting and introduced the various candidates who made short talks. McClellan also announced a schedule of meetings for precinct captains and election workers which will be held early next week.
